Committee Backs Plan To Sell Warplanes to Great Britain, France

Woodring Defends Policy and Wins Approval after Denying He is at Odds with Morgenthau

By REG INGRAHAM

Washington, March 27 (AP)—The administration's new policy of releasing late model warplanes for export won the general approval of the House committee today, and American manufacturers immediately prepared to handle prospective Allied orders totaling $1,000,000.

Secretary of War Woodring, explaining and defending the policy before the House military committee, asserted it had been formulated by the war department "without coercion or pressure from anyone."

Woodring indignantly said: "As long as I am secretary of war, I am not going to be pushed around," he assured the committee bluntly, in denying he had any "friction" with Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau over sale of planes to the Allies.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) quelled an attempt by Rep. Anderson (D-Mo.) to have Woodring answer a question as to whether Morgenthau and Ambassador William C. Bullitt had "sold" President Roosevelt the idea of letting the Allies have all the planes they would buy.

After hearing Woodring, Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, and Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, endorse the revamped policy unqualifiedly, committee members generally expressed satisfaction with it, although no vote was taken.

Meantime, a score of plane manufacturers conferred with a Presidential committee appointed to coordinate domestic and foreign airplane orders. Afterward, the conferees issued a statement saying: "There was general agreement that large additional foreign orders can be handled in a manner affording complete protection to our national interest and to the satisfaction of the airplane industry."

Keeping Out of War First Need, Dewey Declares

Sees Lack of Integrity in All New Deal Policies

St. Louis, March 27 (AP)—Thomas E. Dewey declared tonight the first need of the country is an administration which can be trusted "to keep this nation out of war."

The youthful New York county district attorney who seeks the Republican presidential nomination, charged in a speech that "failure has followed every step" of the New Deal "because underlying all its policies there has been a fundamental lack of integrity—a cynical disregard for the principles of common honesty."

"This lack of integrity is shown in three principal ways—broken promises, contempt for the constitution and flagrant abuse of power," he said.

No Faith in New Deal

"So what faith can we place in any promise by this administration to keep this nation out of war?" Dewey's address was the first in a series on "the moral issues" of the campaign which he will continue in Chicago tomorrow night. It was given before a meeting sponsored by the Missouri State Republican Committee and was broadcast over a nationwide (Mutual 9-9:30 p. m. Central Standard Time) hookup.

"I do not need to tell you that the spoken word and the public badge of this administration are worthless," he declared.

The erosion of character x x x began within six weeks after it took office. It has continued ever since, tearing away the foundations of governmental integrity."

Claiming the New Deal's "record of incompetence and bad faith" had "hardly recovered, Dewey asserted: The New Deal attempts to elec-

Senate Vote on Trade Pacts Seen As Possible Tie

Garner May Have Opportunity To Win for Administration

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Leaders of both sides anxiously and apprehensively counted votes today as the Senate stood 47 for such a requirement to forty-four against it, with five votes doubtful. He said that this tally jibed with a poll taken by a leading opponent of ratification. On the basis of this count the foes of the trade agreements program claimed a real chance for victory.

One Republican Senator took a poll, which, he said, showed that the Senate stood 47 for such a requirement to forty-four against it, with five votes doubtful. He said that this tally jibed with a poll taken by a leading opponent of ratification. On the basis of this count the foes of the trade agreements program claimed a real chance for victory.

The five votes counted as uncertain were those of Senators Bailey (D-NC), Holt (D-WVa.), Schwelb (D-Wash.), Pepper (D-Fla.) and Donahue (D-O). The mathematics of the situation was that the administration had to pick up four of the five to obtain a tie, or all of them to win outright.

Garner May Swing Decision

In the event of a tie, and the possibility of one was hardly discounted, it was thought probable among Vice President Garner's friends that he would swing the decision to the administration.

The leaders and many others spent more time today checking up the uncertain outcome than in listening to the debate, which found Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Vandenberg (R-Mich.) speaking for the ratification restriction and Senator George (D-Ga.) speaking against it.

The question came up with a resolution extending for three years the authority of the president to make trade agreements changing the tariff rates. Without the legislation his power to do so would expire on June 12. The administration is so deeply opposed to it that there has been talk that President Roosevelt will veto the bill if the amendment is adopted.

Vandenberg said the nation was about to "lose its shirt" under the trade agreements program. He objected particularly to the fact that a tariff reduction granted to one

France and Russia in Danger of a Break in Diplomatic Relations

Recall of Soviet Ambassador May Be Followed by Drastic Move within a Few Days, Press Hints

By ROY PORTER

Paris, March 27 (AP)—The possibility of a rupture of diplomatic relations between France and Russia developed today as a result of France's fulfilled request for recall of the Soviet ambassador to Paris, Jakob Surits.

A French press campaign for Paris to cut her diplomatic ties with Moscow gained momentum in the wake of the recall, which the French government requested because it felt the envoy had "insulted" France and Britain.

The well-informed newspaper Le Temps said: "The friend of our enemies, Russia, is our enemy, whether we wish it or not. She should be treated as such. Why should we put up any longer with a fiction with everything denies and contradicts?"

Court May Oust Bertrand Russell

Decision Depends upon What Judge Finds in Teacher's Books

New York, March 27 (AP)—A state supreme court justice indicated that he would bar Bertrand Russell from teaching in co-educational City College if a reading of the British Earl's published works supported the accusation that he condoned sexual abnormalities.

This allegation was made by Joseph Goldstein of counsel for Mrs. Jean Kay, a Brooklyn housewife, in a hearing on her suit for an order requiring the board of education to rescind Russell's appointment to an $8,000-a-year chair in philosophy at the college.

"Russell conducted a nudist colony in England," Goldstein told the court. "His children paraded nude. He and his wife have paraded nude in public. This old man who is now about 70 years old has gone in for salacious poetry. Russell winks at homosexuality. I'll go further and say he approves of it."

"Is that in the writings?" asked Justice John E. McGeehan, referring to the four Russell volumes which were before the court.

"Yes," Goldstein added. "If I find xxx that these books sustain the allegations of the petition, the justice said sharply, 'I will give the appellate division and the Court of Appeals something to think about.'"

With this remark, he reserved decision. Some in the courtroom interpreted it to mean that if he found Russell objectionable a matter of public policy he would write an opinion in such terms as to make it difficult of reversal by the higher courts, should they desire to reverse it.

Committee Votes $3,000,000 Limit To Campaign Fund

Curb on Expenditures May Be Added to the Hatch Bill

Washington, March 27 (AP)—A clause forbidding national political committees to spend more than $3,000,000 each in any campaign was added to the Hatch anti-politics bill today as that Senate-approved measure passed its first House test. The bill, which would curb political activities of state employees paid in whole or in part with federal funds, was approved by a House Judiciary subcommittee after Chairman Walter (D-Pa.) had succeeded in adding the amendment limiting national campaign expenditures. If written into law, the amendment would hold expenditures of both the Republican and Democratic national committees below the levels of the 1936 presidential campaign. In that year, the Republican committee disbursed $8,065,524 and the Democrats $5,030,848.

Says $3,000,000 Is Enough

Walter told newsmen that $3,000,000 should be enough to finance all the campaigning necessary to inform the voters. There was no use having a corrupt practices act, he added, if elections were to go "to the highest bidder."

Rep. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican leader, predicted that the Hatch Bill would pass if it reached the House floor. Asked about the Walter amendment, Martin said he had been inclined to (Continued on Page Two)

Mackenzie King's Majority a Record

Ottawa, March 27 (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King's liberal government piled up the largest parliamentary majority in Canadian history today as scattered returns from yesterday's general election gave still further support to the government's conduct of the war against Germany.

With only five seats in doubt and one to be filled by a deferred election, the liberals had won 177 of the 245 seats in the House of Commons. Furthermore, Liberal candidates were leading in each of the five undecided elections.

The national government party, principal opposition group, which includes the Conservative party, won only thirty-eight seats. The other two opposition groups, the cooperative commonwealth federation and the New Democracy party, won eight and seven seats respectively.

The remaining nine seats went to scattered minor parties.

D.C. Winebrenner Dies Suddenly in Hospital in Phila.

Secretary of State under Ritchie Victim of Thrombosis

Frederick, Md., March 27 (AP)—David C. Winebrenner, 3rd, Maryland's secretary of state for nine years under the late Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, and powerful Western Maryland Democratic leader, died unexpectedly today.

But recently returned from an airplane tour of Central and South America, the 42-year old attorney complained last week of persistent weariness and nervousness and entered a Philadelphia hospital for a rest.

He died there at 2:05 a. m., with a brother, Philip R. Winebrenner, sales manager of a Philadelphia manufacturing firm, at his bedside. Cause of death was given as coronary thrombosis.

Winebrenner was active in politics from the time he was old enough to vote and became prominent in Maryland Democratic affairs when Governor Ritchie, his cousin, took office.

Prior to that time, he was secretary to Senator William Cabell Bruce, and once ran unsuccessfully for Congress in the Sixth District.

Member of Strong Group

At the time of his death, he was a member of a closely-coordinated group of Western Maryland party leaders, including Attorney General William C. Walsh of Cumberland; former secretary of State E. Brooke Lee of Montgomery county and Former Attorney General William P. Lane of Washington county.

Last Thursday, Winebrenner went to Baltimore to confer with managers of Howard Bruce's Democratic senatorial campaign, which Winebrenner, along with Lane, Walsh and Lee, had agreed to support.

When the Frederick attorney first entered politics, this county was predominantly Republican, but he built the Democratic party up until a few years ago, it achieved a majority it still holds over the G.O.P.

He attended public school here, St. Paul's school at Concord, N. H., and Princeton. He left Princeton when the world war broke out and went to France as an ambulance driver.

Taught Near Hagerstown

Upon his return, he taught at St. James' school near Hagerstown, then entered the University of Maryland law school. He was admitted to the bar a year before he was graduated and opened a law office here.

Later in 1933, during an illness of Governor Ritchie, Winebrenner won the title "unofficial governor" when he took over the task of steering administration bills through the legislature. Of thirty-one bills Winebrenner backed, thirty passed.

After Governor Ritchie's defeat in 1934, Winebrenner announced his retirement from politics, but he returned to the wars to back Mayor Howard W. Jackson in the 1938 gubernatorial primaries. Frederick county was carried for Jackson.

In addition to his brother, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Ritchie Winebrenner and an aunt, Miss Mary Mausby of Frederick.

Radcliffe Confers With County Leaders

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Senator Radcliffe (D-Md.), who is seeking re-election, conferred today with Democratic supporters from Montgomery and Prince Georges counties, Md.

Radcliffe said the meetings were of a general nature to check up on what had been done and the future course of his campaign. The meetings were attended by a number of Democratic leaders, among them Senator Tydings (D-Md.).

Jakob Surits, Russian ambassador to Paris, has been recalled at the demand of the French government, the Moscow radio reported. The broadcast said the French took offense at a telegram which Surits filed for transmission to Josef Stalin in connection with the peace treaty ending the Russian-Finnish war. France is said to have regarded the telegram, which cast slurs at the Allied forces, "as an intrusion into the internal political life of France." Surits is pictured above.

$67,450,000 More Added to CCC and NYA Funds for '40

Question of How To Pay Bill Raised Unsuccessfully

By DONALD A. YOUNG

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Despite cries of "how are you going to pay the bill," the House today added $67,450,000 to next year's appropriations for the CCC and the NYA.

Subject to final confirmation tomorrow, the members ran roughshod over economy forces, adding $50,000,000 to President Roosevelt's request for $230,000,000 for Civilian Conservation Camps and upping by $17,450,000 his request for $85,000,000 for the National Youth Administration.

Both increases, their sponsors said, would insure continuance of the 1941 NYA and CCC programs at their present levels. The president had asked for a flat $15,000,000 slash in NYA funds and elimination of 273 of the 1,500 CCC camps.

Immediately after the CCC increase was approved tentatively by a 134 to 100 vote, Rep. Woodrum (D-Va.), leader of the House Economy bloc, told an attentive membership that a "tragic thing" had just occurred.

Asserting that the House had reversed its previous policy of attempting to "live within budget estimates," Woodrum shouted: "If we are now going to go ahead (Continued on Page Two)

Mysterious Fire Sweeps German Supply Plant Outside North Berlin

By PRESTON GROVER

Berlin, March 28 — (Thursday) (AP)—A fiercely blazing fire in a closely guarded military supply plant rendered the skies of the thinly inhabited outskirts of North Berlin yet early today.

Starting late last night in a wooden warehouse of an industrial plant at Wilhelmsruh, six miles from the center of Berlin, the blaze persisted this morning though apparently confined by a great mobilization of fire fighting apparatus to the one building.

DNB, official German news agency, in reporting the blaze did not mention the name of the plant. Observers, however, said it was the Bergmann electricity works, which is understood to have been converted to manufacture of war materials. The intense red reflection of the

Bad News Is Partly Offset by Brilliant British Victories in Air on Western Front

By DREW MIDDLETON

London, March 27 (AP)—The unwelcome news that a wide-ranging German submarine had penetrated the precincts of closely guarded Kirkwall, big British blockade base in the Orkney Islands, to sink the 3,794-ton Norwegian freighter Cometa, brought the undersea war sharply back home to Great Britain tonight.

It was a day of other bad news at sea, offset, to some extent, by glowing accounts of British air successes over the Western front and the North Sea.

Moreover, today brought the news that a second Soviet freighter, the Vladimir Mayakovsky, allegedly loaded with metals and bound from the United States west coast to Vladivostok, had been caught in the British blockade net at Hongkong.

Soviet Freighter Captured

In response to queries prompted by the current world interest in Allied-Soviet relations, a foreign office spokesman was quick to say that Soviet-British relations had not been strained in any way by the seizures.

"Anglo-Russian relations are normal," the spokesman insisted, "M. Maisky, (the Russian ambassador) has had several talks with the ministry of economic warfare about the detention of the ships, but that is all."

The Kirkwall contraband control base, in or near which the Cometa was torpedoed, is a bay on the northeast side of the Orkney Islands called Mainland. This is north of Scapa Flow, where the battleship Royal Oak was sunk by a submarine early in the war, and which was raided heavily recently by Nazi bombers.

The crew of the freighter, numbering thirty-seven, was saved. The torpedoing climaxed this new list of ships lost:

British tanker Daghestan, 5,742 tons, sunk Sunday in North sea with her captain and three of crew; cause undisclosed.

Coalition Group Formed To Help Restore Finland

Premier Ryti and Eight Wartime Cabinet Members Continue

By MAX HARBELSON

Helsinki, March 27 (AP)—Finland made a start tonight toward rebuilding the nation on the ashes of an unhappy peace.

Premier Risto Ryti's wartime cabinet resigned, to be succeeded immediately by a coalition ministry under the same leader and dedicated to the sole task of reconstruction.

The new cabinet differs from that which led the country through three and a half months of war chiefly in that it includes members of all major parties and several ministers with no active political affiliations.

New Foreign Minister

Premier Ryti and eight others of the wartime cabinet have been carried over in ministry formed today. There is a new foreign minister, Rolf Johan Witting, sixty-one-year-old veteran of varied scientific, financial and political experience. He replaces Valno Tanner, target of bitter attacks by the Russian press and radio. Tanner becomes minister of food supply, a new portfolio created as a result of post-war conditions.

Major-General Karl Rudolf Walden, member of the permanent defense council and one of the negotiators of the Russian-Finnish peace treaty, is the new minister of defense. Antti Kukkunen, a clergyman, is minister of education. Karl Erik Ekholm, who will act jointly with Valno Salovaara as minister of communications and public works, is a business man.

Maine Democrats Want Farley If FDR Steps Aside

Adopt Resolution Favoring Nomination of Party Chairman

Bangor, Me., March 27 (AP)—Maine Democrats joined the Roosevelt third term movement today, pledging their ten national convention votes to the president should he seek re-election, with National Chairman James A. Farley their second choice.

The resolution pledging the votes to Roosevelt was carried on voice vote by the 1,500 delegates to the state convention, with comparatively few "nayes" registered.

Supporters of Vice President John N. Garner had worked in pre-convention activity for an "open-minded," unpledged delegation.

Farley Lauds Roosevelt

The convention action followed by a few hours an address by Farley, an avowed candidate for the nomination, in which he praised the administration's accomplishments and lauded Mr. Roosevelt as "a great Democratic president."

The latter remark was an interjection in his prepared text.

(Democrats in New Hampshire, Maine's neighboring state, two weeks ago pledged their eight convention votes by an overwhelming margin to President Roosevelt.)

The resolution, presented by Ernest L. McLean of Augusta, set forth that "our founders in the constitutional convention of 1787 manifested their intention that a president of the United States should be elected for a third term, if the electorate so desired."

Referring to the world crisis caused by war, it further stated that people of the United States desired peace and "should have during the next four years a president who is able to accept and deal with trying and grave problems, and a leader whose efforts are dedicated to world peace and to keep the youth of America out of war."

"It is the sense of this convention," the resolution continued that its delegates voted for Roosevelt "in the event that he is a candidate."

Farley Second Choice

And if he is not again a candidate, it added, it is the sense of this convention of the great service to his country of James A. Farley, his ability, high integrity and eminent qualifications for the presidency that the delegates chosen by this convention shall support the candidacy of James A. Farley.

Farley in his speech, refrained from making references to his own presidential hope or the Roosevelt third term issue.

The Democratic party, Farley asserted, has "revived the nation's economic life and kept alive the vision of universal peace in a war-torn world."

He charged that the Republican party had "failed to produce a genuine program and it has signally failed to develop leaders of national stature who have won the people's confidence."

Sinks Norwegian

March 13; thirty-six crewmen landed today.

Netherlands freighter Saba, 400 tons, a week overdue and feared lost with her crew of seven.

Another neutral casualty, laid to a collision with a Danish ship of England, was the Italian steamer Italo Balbo 5,114 tons. She was damaged.

Only yesterday, the British admiralty announced there were no Allied ships sunk in the week ending Sunday night, but tonight's disclosure of the Daghestan's fate spoiled this claim.

Another source of chagrin to the British was the arrival at Kiel of the Nazi prison ship Altmärk, which the British navy forced ashore in a Norwegian fjord on February 6 to release 299 British prisoners. It had been hoped here the navy would "finish the job" and capture the Altmärk before she got home.

Against all this, British correspondents with the Royal Air Force in France reported that British fighting planes had brought down at least five and possibly seven German planes in three distinct battles over the Western front, losing only one plane themselves. The British were outnumbered by thirty-one to seven in the fights, the dispatches stated.

German Patrol Ship Sunk

The air ministry announced tonight that a scouting plane of the British coastal command had attacked and sunk a German patrol vessel in the North Sea.

Reuters (British news agency), in reporting the far eastern detention of the Soviet steamer Vladimír Mayakovsky, said she had taken aboard munitions-making metals both at San Pedro, Cal., and at Manzanillo, Mexico.

Presumably the British believed the metals would be trans-shipped by trans-Siberian railway to Germany. The Soviet ship previously detained at Hongkong was the 2,492-ton Stelenga, carrying Chinese tungsten. She was taken into port on January 13.

The ministry of economic warfare announced in London that eleven United States ships had been examined at British blockade bases between March 9 and March 23.

Veteran Editor Dies at Keyser

George Goshon Found Grant County Press

Piedmont, W. Va., March 27.—George T. Goshon one of the oldest residents of Piedmont, W. Va., died tonight at Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va., of complications.

Mr. Goshon was a former newspaper publisher, having founded the Grant County (W. Va.) Press in 1887 which was the first paper published in that county.

He also published the Mountain Echo, at Keyser, and the Piedmont Observer now extinct. He was postmaster in Piedmont in 1882 and later from 1907 to 1916.

Mr. Goshon was born in Juniata County, Pa., June 2, 1851. He was the son of the late David and Margaret Lacey Goshon.

In 1872 he married the late Sally M. Combs. He is survived by the following children: Mrs. H. B. Dawson and Mrs. Robert Cole, Piedmont; Mrs. Hattie M. Hood, Chicago, Ill.; and Paul and J. Elkins Goshon, of Washington, D. C.

pell mell, and appropriate, I submit to you that it is honest to decide somewhere how are you going to pay the bill? Are you going to have a tax bill or are you going to raise the debt limit and borrow the money?"

Rep. Scruggs (D-Nev.) replied that Congress passed "very lightly" appropriations of $50,000,000 or $100,000,000 to purchase "instrumentalities of destruction and death" but opposed strenuously another $50,000,000, "comparatively a trifle," to help young men.

Whereupon the House voted, 141 to 133, to increase the NYA fund at the request of Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.) and a host of others who argued that the proposed cut would "turn onto the streets and into Communist channels" about 125,000 of the 750,000 young people now receiving NYA aid.

Earlier, the House upheld a recommendation of its Appropriations committee that wage-hour appropriations next year be limited to $5,105,000, compared with $3,461,000 available for this year and with President Roosevelt's budget estimate of $6,185,000.

Tomorrow the House will consider the Appropriation committee's recommendations for a $337,000 cut in the president's request for a $3,180,000 appropriation for the National Labor Relations board.

He will continue outside the cabinet as commander-in-chief of Finland's armed forces.

At the first session of the new government Rytty presented the following program:

1. Speedy inauguration of a comprehensive national reconstruction as the "most important task facing the government."
2. A "foreign policy of peace and neutrality."

4. "Our defense must be planned and built up with a view to the new conditions."

He accused the administration of trying to "excuse reckless spending by claiming it is necessary for relief and recovery."

France and

sia began as long as Jan. 14, when Philippe Henriot filed a resolution in the Chamber of Deputies demanding such a move. Today the press generally added to the fire with outspoken indignation.

Allies "insulted" A French official spokesman charged that Surits had "insulted the Allies" in sending to Josef Stalin a telegram on the Finnish peace, instead of being filed in the usual diplomatic code under diplomatic immunity, was sent in precise French and dispatched through normal French post office facilities.

The censor stopped the telegram, and the government took the view that dispatch of such a message—British-French warmongers were mentioned—not only was insulting but was a deliberate attempt to use French communications systems for "Communist propaganda."

Surits, thus "persona non grata" was expected to leave Paris within a few days. The French ambassador to Moscow, Paul Emile Nagier, has been in France on "sick leave" for several weeks, so neither country will be represented by an ambassador at the other's capital.

Demand Is "Warning" The French demand for Surits' recall was interpreted as a "warning" to Russia from the new government of Premier Reynaud, which already has announced a plan for a stiffer diplomatic fight against Germany.

France, already fighting underground Communist organizations, was said to be disturbed by a reported increase of Soviet espionage.

France "does not intend to be duped," said the official spokesman today.

"France intends to make her rights vigorously respected," he said. "She will not tolerate that acts particularly directed against her be committed under the cover of neutrality."

Russia Not Alarmed By French Attitude Moscow, March 27 (AP)—Russians appeared tonight to have taken France's demand for the recall of Soviet Ambassador Jakob Surits, and the Kremlin's acquiescence, with good humor.

Newspapers limited their accounts of the affair to the statement published by Tass, the official news agency, which said France had objected to the wording of a telegram which Surits signed for transmission to Josef Stalin on the occasion of the Russo-Finnish peace.

"Warmongers" Fall This telegram rejoiced in the failure of "the plans of the British-French warmongers who attempted to fan the flames of war in north-eastern Europe."

The Tass statement quoted the Soviet government as saying that it saw no substantial ground for France to object to Surits on the score of the telegram, but that since France has raised the question of confidence in him, he was being relieved of his duties.

The French ambassador, Paul Emile Nagier, left Moscow early last month on the grounds of ill health.

The army organ, the newspaper Red Star, without reference to the diplomatic situation, carried an article attacking what it termed the imperialist record of France in Tunis and Indo-China and that of Great Britain in Egypt and the Far East.

Friend of Small Nations In contrast, it said the U.S.S.R. never had suppressed the sovereign rights of small countries but, instead, was their friend and protector.

The Communist organ Pravda, meantime, said that proposals for a defensive alliance between Finland, Norway and Sweden was arousing indignation amongst the people of those countries. (A recent Tass statement said Soviet Russia must regard such an alliance as aimed at the U.S.S.R.)

Hunt for Body Is Abandoned

Searchers Miss Corpse, See Hundreds of Ducks

The mystery body reportedly seen floating down Wills creek last week seemed destined today to remain a mystery.

Frederick C. "Buck" Dryer announced last night he had abandoned the search after hunting along a 13-mile stretch of the Potomac with three other men yesterday.

Dryer said that it was possible that the body might have floated beyond Pattersons creek, where he called off the search, but indicated he thought it highly improbable.

The body — if there was one — would have probably caught on one of the many islands in the river, he said.

The veteran riverman, who was assisted in the search by Harry Kenney, George Smith and William Allamang, reported that although they found no body, they saw "more ducks than I've seen around here in forty years."

Dryer said he saw about 700 following the course of the river — most of them mallards.

that has occurred in the placing of British and French orders for some $1,000,000,000 of airplanes would now be ended.

Col. John H. Jowett, president of the aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, said that the manufacturers were told at the conference that they might negotiate with foreign governments for the sale of all war planes which the army and navy, until now, had decreed must be kept off the market. Actual sales will be subject to specific official approval, however.

Rep. Harter (D-Ohio), chairman of the House military subcommittee which initiated today's inquiry, said it had "brought the whole matter into the open and clarified our national policy."

On the Senate side, Senator Clark (D-Mo) disclosed he had told the Senate foreign relations committee that the policy "was another step leading toward involvement in war."

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.), bearded Bostonian and big-game hunter, set out today to stop Thomas E. Dewey, charging that Dewey was "unfit" for the Republican presidential nomination because his ideas on foreign policy were similar to those of President Roosevelt.

Tinkham issued a statement in which he said the New York district attorney had "evidenced his utter lack of sympathy with traditional American foreign policies."

The New Yorker, he added, "practically stated that there is no difference between the foreign policies of the Republican party and the internationalist policies of the Roosevelt administration."

"Such a statement," Tinkham continued, "is a repudiation of the efforts of the Republicans in Congress, who since President Roosevelt's 'quarantine speech' at Chicago in 1937, have been endeavoring to combat the various attempts of the Roosevelt administration to undermine American neutrality."

Dewey, Tinkham continued, "went on to praise Henry L. Stimson, former Republican secretary of state, who, when he retired, left the United States on the verge of war with Japan." He added that the district attorney "chose to align himself with such Republican internationalists and political interventionists as Stimson and Nicholas Murray Butler, together with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and the United States minister to Canada, James H. R. Cromwell."

Welles To Report To Roosevelt Today New York, March 27 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles returns tomorrow from a tour of Europe made in behalf of President Roosevelt.

He is aboard the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, which is expected to arrive about 9 a. m. (EST). He will leave thirty minutes later for Washington to make a closely held report to the president.

"Lucky" Luciano Ordered Death of Foe, O'Dwyer Says

Removed Rival in Profitable New York Drug Racket

New York, March 27 (AP)—Charles "Lucky" Luciano, onetime white slave traffic czar whose luck ran out, tonight was named by Brooklyn District Attorney William O'Dwyer as the man who dictated the execution of a competing gangster in the narcotics racket.

O'Dwyer said the slaying was being investigated for its possible connection with the Brooklyn "murder-for-cash" syndicate to which he has already attributed more than thirty killings, sometimes for as small a "contract price" as one dollar.

The latest killing on the growing list was that of Sam "Muddy" Kasoff, whose bullet-punctured body was found lying behind billboards near Long Beach, Long Island.

O'Dwyer said Luciano, then known as "The Boss" in Manhattan's underworld, became enraged when Kasoff attempted to encroach in the trafficking of narcotics, a field Luciano regarded as his.

Death Sentence Passed A sentence of death was passed by Luciano, the prosecutor related, and forthwith Kasoff was kidnapped, kept prisoner for a time, then with his hands tied in his pockets, shot to death in lower Manhattan.

Previously, O'Dwyer said he had been informed, Kasoff had been ordered to pay $5,000 to Luciano, but made only one tribute payment of $2,700 before four "bullets" cut him down.

Previously O'Dwyer had declared the syndicate killed on a contract basis for not only Luciano, but for Louis "Lepke" Buchalter and Jacob "Gurrah" Shapiro, racket overlords.

Lucky Loses Luck Luciano, whom the underworld dubbed "Lucky" because he was one of the few persons ever to return — alive — from a gangland "ride," lost his luck four years ago, when he was convicted of directing a $12,000,000-a-year vice syndicate and sentenced to 30 to 50 years in Sing Sing penitentiary. With him went thirteen of his henchmen.

As another development tonight, detectives picked up on vagrancy charges Frank "Little Frankie" Galluccio, credited by police with having given Al Capone the scar that brought him his nickname of "Scarface," and Ralph "The Captain" Sprizza, 44. Wanted by O'Dwyer for questioning, they were held under $5,000 bail each.

In 1923, when Capone was a small-time gangster in Brooklyn, police say, he insulted Galluccio's sister and Galluccio slashed him with a knife. Shortly after this, according to the police version, Capone hired "Little Frankie" as his bodyguard at $100 a week.

Tinkham Charges

Dewey Is "Unfit" For Nomination

Massachusetts Congressman Starts Move To "Stop" New Yorker

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Rep. Tinkham (R-Mass.), bearded Bostonian and big-game hunter, set out today to stop Thomas E. Dewey, charging that Dewey was "unfit" for the Republican presidential nomination because his ideas on foreign policy were similar to those of President Roosevelt.

Tinkham issued a statement in which he said the New York district attorney had "evidenced his utter lack of sympathy with traditional American foreign policies."

The New Yorker, he added, "practically stated that there is no difference between the foreign policies of the Republican party and the internationalist policies of the Roosevelt administration."

"Such a statement," Tinkham continued, "is a repudiation of the efforts of the Republicans in Congress, who since President Roosevelt's 'quarantine speech' at Chicago in 1937, have been endeavoring to combat the various attempts of the Roosevelt administration to undermine American neutrality."

Dewey, Tinkham continued, "went on to praise Henry L. Stimson, former Republican secretary of state, who, when he retired, left the United States on the verge of war with Japan." He added that the district attorney "chose to align himself with such Republican internationalists and political interventionists as Stimson and Nicholas Murray Butler, together with President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Hull and the United States minister to Canada, James H. R. Cromwell."

Welles To Report To Roosevelt Today New York, March 27 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles returns tomorrow from a tour of Europe made in behalf of President Roosevelt.

He is aboard the Italian liner Conte di Savoia, which is expected to arrive about 9 a. m. (EST). He will leave thirty minutes later for Washington to make a closely held report to the president.

Careening Car Knocks Pedestrian Through Algonquin Hotel Window

Two men were injured, one seriously, early today in a freak accident that sent a powerful sedan plunging into the huge window of the Algonquin hotel carrying a pedestrian with it.

The accident occurred after the big car, driven by Clayton B. Oster, about 20, of RFD 4, Oldtown Road, got out of control on the Western Maryland railroad tracks and careened dizzily past another car and ploughed into the hotel.

The crash of the fifteen-foot plate glass window brought guests scurrying out of the hotel. Oster was writhing on the pavement after being thrown out of the car.

In front of the car lay Allen Tracey, 49, of Pittsburgh, Pa., a guest at the hotel, who had been standing in front of the hotel with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tracey, of 831 Gephart drive.

Tracey was not quick enough in getting out of the way of the big car which suddenly swerved on the Baltimore street bridge and crashed into the hotel.

A dozen policemen arrived on the scene in a few seconds, an ambulance arrived, and Oster and Tracey were rushed to Allegheny hospital.

In the front seat of the car with Oster was Herbert Gross, also of Oldtown Road, a Celanese employee, who was not injured. Police took Gross to police headquarters, where Assistant Chief John J. Trieber grilled him minutely regarding where he and Oster had been.

Gross said he had got in the car with Oster in South Cumberland, seemed foggy about the whole episode and was unable to give the officers a coherent story of what happened.

Gross was locked up and was being held at 1:30 a. m. for further investigation.

At 1:30 a. m., Allegheny hospital attendants decided that Oster, who had appeared to be seriously hurt, was not injured badly enough to warrant admitting him.

He was brought to police headquarters to join Gross, and Lieut. James E. Van said he would be charged with drunken and reckless driving.

Pat Stakem, desk clerk at the Algonquin, said he had been working at his desk when the crash split the stillness of the lobby.

"There was a guest sitting in a chair right by the window that was busted," Stakem said. "I never saw a man jump so quick or so far in all my life."

The large green car that crashed into the hotel was not seriously damaged, an investigation revealed. Tracey remained in a semi-conscious condition at the hospital, where attendants said he had suffered a possible fracture of the left leg, a possible brain concussion and severe cuts and bruises.

Tracey's hat was found after the crash in the hotel lobby. Officers who rushed to the hotel following the crash at approximately 12:15 p. m. included Lieut. James E. Van, and Officers James J. Condon, Frank Zwaski, John G. Powers, H. P. Kennard, Carl J. Stouffer, Walter P. Crabtree, F. A. Shober Jr., and Serget. Bert B. Browne.

Specific terms of frontier security and freedom of economic outlets and inlets in Europe.

Welles may know or be able to deduce whether "crush-Hitlerism" means only eliminating Hitler, or a more sweeping make-over of Germany. He may even know what Nazi Fuehrer other than Hitler, would be acceptable to the allies in talking peace, and what faint chance there may be in Germany of such a change in leadership. If not, there can be little in his information from which the president can generate hopes of early peace.

Statenmen and diplomats of the world, neutral and belligerent, would give much for an accurate summary of the report which Welles will make to Mr. Roosevelt. They might find in it the basis for a new estimate of German or Allied war strategy this year.

Above all, Welles might have a key to the riddle of Italian policy and to the outcome of the Hitler-Mussolini conference in Brenner Pass.

French-Russian Break Looms The French political crisis has cast a new ominous shadow over already strained relations between France and Russia. Ousting of the Soviet ambassador to Paris for sending indiscreet messages to Moscow, chortling over Russia's victory in Finland obviously was a move of the fallen Daladier ministry, which Daladier's successor, Premier Reynaud, completed.

Against the background of press-war demands that brought M. Reynaud to power, however, the ouster has a sterner implication than appears obvious.

In his first speech to the French chamber the new premier served blunt notice, not only on Germany, but on Russia and Italy, that France, and presumably her British ally, could not tolerate any "attack on the economic independence of the Balkans."

"The duty of the (French) government is clear," Reynaud said. "We must wage war, wage it in all domains."

It is a reasonable guess that Welles obtained a confidential preview of the French ministerial crisis and its effect on Allied war policy. He conferred with both Daladier and Reynaud.

British View Plank The only official inkling of the matters confided to Welles in either Allied capital came from British Prime Minister Chamberlain. He told Parliament that the American special representative could not have doubted Britain's win-the-war unity.

Not the least important communication Welles could make to the president would be to reduce the allied "smash Hitlerism" battle cry to eight charges.

The man, booked as William J. Baldrige, became angry during a conversation with a young woman and ripped the receiver from a public telephone. He then drove away in an automobile.

Police pursued and caught him. They charged him with: 1, disturbance of the peace; 2, destruction of property; 3, careless driving by speeding 60 miles an hour; 4, resisting arrest, and 5, 6, 7, 8, passing four stop signs.

Detroit Bars Gable And Crawford Film Detroit, March 27 (AP)—On the grounds that they are "obscene and indecent," two motion pictures have been banned by police from showing in Detroit.

The pictures are "Strange Cargo," co-starring Clark Gable and Joan Crawford, and "Primrose Path," with Ginger Rogers as the star.

Pew Pictures ever have been completely banned here, and most of those have been foreign films. A few years ago, a re-showing of "Birth of a Nation" was denied on the ground of racial prejudice.

Famous Capital Catholic Church Swept by Flames

Msgr. Connelly, Formerly of Cumberland, Pastor, Prostrated

Washington, March 27 (AP)—Flames swept through historic St. Peter's church in southeast Washington today and left much of the gray stone structure, built in 1860, a charred skeleton.

The roof was destroyed and the interior of the nave was soaked with thousands of gallons of water and littered with charred timbers. The fire occurred as the church was being redecorated for the celebration of the 120th anniversary of the parish.

The pastor, the Right Rev. E. J. Connelly was reported prostrated and under medical care after dashing into the structure several times in an effort to salvage all the furnishings possible.

Two firemen were injured when the slate shingles began falling from the roof.

The sanctuary was not damaged, and flames on a dozen vigils lights and altar tapers remained flickering while water dripped from the roof.

Monsignor Connelly, pastor of Peter's church, referred to in the above Associated Press dispatch, is a former assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, Cumberland, and is known to many Cumberland people.

country applied as well to imports from virtually all other countries.

Calls System Ruinous This system, he said, was "slowly but surely if not deliberately driving the United States to a basis of uncompensated low tariffs which will ultimately wreck us just as surely as too low tariffs heretofore have always been poison to American wage and living and price standards."

As a substitute, Vandenberg proposed the establishment of a "concentrated foreign trade authority which can cope with all the external trade penalties which American export increasingly confronts."

Disputing Vandenberg's argument that the system was unconstitutional, Senator George (D-Ga.) said it was impossible for Congress to regulate foreign commerce and that it must therefore delegate that task to the executive.

The program, he said, was a "sensible and unnecessary use of another branch of the government to exercise our own exclusive right to regulate foreign commerce."

accept the bill as it came from the Senate, in order to avoid the delays of a conference to adjust House and Senate differences.

As passed by the Senate, the legislation did not include the $3,000,000 limitation but did contain a provision by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) forbidding any reason to make campaign contributions of more than $5,000 in any year. The House subcommittee retained this provision.

Two Amendments Eliminated It eliminated, however, two Senate amendments—one by Senator Brown (D-Mich.) to exempt employees of educational, religious, eleemosynary, philanthropic and cultural institutions from the curb on political activities, and another by Senator Adams (D-Colo.) to permit affected employees to run for office in party primaries without resigning from their jobs.

Rep. Dempsey (D-NM), a leader of the forces fighting for the legislation, was elated at the subcommittee's rejection of these two amendments. He said the Brown amendment was an invitation to educational employees to get into politics.

Youth Makes a Business Of Being a Nursemaid

AP Feature Service

Raleigh, N. C. — Peter Pop, a Brooklyn boy who came to North Carolina State College to study agricultural economy, has built a business as a nursemaid.

Starting one of the customary methods of earning extra money—tending children while their parents took a night out at bridge or the movies—he discovered that there was a greater demand for service from parents of babies who needed 10 o'clock feedings and a little special care. So he concentrated on babies. Soon he was hiring assistants.

He has to pick them carefully, he says. Babies don't take to all students, and many students are afraid of babies. The only hazard his helpers have to overcome, he has found, is learning to pin on diapers without sticking the pin into their own thumbs. (He's doing it right in the picture.)

All You Have To Do Is Wish, Jean Discovered, and if He's Handsome Enough He'll Come True

seemed such a businesslike thing to do. "Pete," she began. Jean always thought of Pete first, especially when she was in trouble. "Five feet five and freckled. He's impossible!" And so she scratched him off the list. Jim was next in line. "He's tall"—hopefully— But I guess you couldn't call him handsome."

There was really no guessing about it, she knew very well that you could not call Jim handsome, and mean it. As the list grew the situation looked more and more hopeless. If they were tall they were not dark, if they were dark they were not tall, and none of them were handsome. The two typewriters in the next room seemed to click a refrain. I want a man, I gotta have a man, I want a man. Just as the tears were coming Jean had another idea.

At the top of another piece of paper she carefully printed, TOM DONOVAN. "Such a nice name," she mused. "And nobody to use it. The irony of it!"

It was fun listing Tom's characteristics. Just like building a beautiful dream castle. Anything she wanted him to have she gave to him—like brown eyes instead of blue because brown eyes are so much softer. She decided that he should be 5 feet 1 because lots of the girls had fellows who were 6 feet tall. That extra inch added so much distinction. His complexion was dark, with a beautiful sun tan. "He lives in Florida, you know." On second thought, she corrected herself, "I think he was only visiting in Florida. He really lives in New York. That will make him more sophisticated." Of course his hair was brown and wavy, all of Jean's dream men had wavy brown hair. When the picture was nearly complete it occurred to Jean that she might have told some of the girls that Tom had dimples, so she added those for safety.

The music, the lights, and the laughter seemed to go to Jean's head. Every once in a while a thrill swept over her and everything appeared unreal, enchanted. When it happened she would cling to Tom's arm a little tighter and laugh a little gayer at his remarks. Then his brown eyes would soften as he looked at her, his dimples would deepen with his smile, and she knew that she held the jealous admiration of every girl on the dance floor. Their glances told her that they were awarding her the honorary degree of envy. And all because of a man! Even Betty had admired Tom. She had said that she liked his dimples, but her flattering remarks did not conceal her jealousy. Jean knew that she was disappointed and angry, disappointed because Jean had fulfilled her promise and brought the handsome Tom Donovan, and angry because Tom's presence had transferred the limelight from herself to Jean. It was a horrible evening for her and a triumphant one for Jean.

All evening she danced on exotic but fragile ground, expecting every minute that something would happen to mar a perfect evening, but nothing did. Tom was splendid, and so understanding. The very fact that he let her call him Tom proved that! As she went to her room when the evening was over, Jean was still breathless with excitement. "I didn't know there could be such a perfect man," she breathed, as she closed the door and leaned against it. The sequins on her jacket glittered in the dimness of the desk lamp and seemed to echo the sparkle of her eyes. The date had been perfect, just perfect. She smiled as she thought of her

Teachers Needed in Industrial Arts and Vocational Agriculture

Charleston, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—For a student training for a high school teaching career, the best bet for a job is in such things as industrial arts and vocational agriculture, in the opinion of David Kirby.

Teachers trained in those studies, and others like them, stand the best chance in the state today of finding a position in the schools, said the secretary of the board of education.

The field is worse overcrowded in English, social studies and kindred subjects, Kirby reported. Except for a betterment of conditions for teachers qualified for teaching mathematics and home economics (vocational), the situation is unchanged from that reflected in a survey made for 1933-36, said Kirby.

During those two years, the researchers found that unemployed were 218 English teachers, 100 teachers of social studies (history, geography, civics, etc.), eighty-four in home economics and thirty-four in biology.

By "unemployed," the survey meant those persons qualified to teach and who actually had applied for a job and were out of work, Kirby said.

46,090 Persons Are Immunized in W. Va.

Charleston, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—A quantity of typhoid vaccine sufficient to immunize 85,782 persons was sent out by the state department of health in 1939, officials reported.

Reports from the county departments showed 46,090 persons actually were immunized during the year, but the number did not take into consideration the vaccines administered by many physicians.

The department reported also: Sufficient diphtheria toxoid sent out to immunize 65,000 persons (30,932 actually immunized) and enough smallpox vaccine issued to treat 55,620 persons (36,707 were administered the vaccine.)

The 4-H octet of the Cumberland Senior 4-H club will sing two Irish numbers.

Study Club Meets

Mrs. Wyand F. Doerner gave a biographical sketch of the life of Mother Seton at a meeting of the Study Club of Ursuline Academy Alumnae Association, last evening at the Academy Assembly room, Fayette street.

Mrs. Doerner spoke first of the early life of Mother Seton. In passing she mentioned the marriage of Mother Seton's step-brother and Grace Roosevelt, daughter of James Roosevelt. Their child later became Archbishop James Roosevelt Bayley, of Baltimore. Mrs. Doerner's chief reference was the "Life of Mother Seton," by Madame de Barbery translated by Father Codie. She told of Mother Seton's affiliating with the French order of Sisters of Charity, and of Napoleon's refusing to allow any of the French nuns to leave France.

A round table discussion followed.

Mrs. Richard McMullen president presided.

Tempering Time's Lines

By HELEN POLLETT

HAVE THE birthdays banked up and has old Meanie Time put some horrid little lines in your face? Teacher is sorry about that, but has some suggestions to offer in the treatment of individual lines. Twin gullies between the eyes, little tracks across the forehead and around the eyes, furrows from nostrils to lip ends, all gain help toward smoothness by using the proper movements.

Have a clean skin surface. Use soap, rinse with warm water, dry the flesh gently. Spread on a heavy cream; a light one will let the fingers slip. Use flattened fingers. Start at the collar bones, sweep upward over chin, cheeks, forehead.

For frown lines, place the first finger of each hand toward each other. When one flies east, the other flies west, ironing the creases and restoring fibers to normalcy.

For forehead lines, do little circles with the first fingers, moving from one temple to the other. Then, with flattened fingers, smooth the flesh from eyebrows to hair line.

Be gentle with turkey tracks. Sweep outward over the upper lid, inward underneath the eye. Hold the flesh flat with the fingers of the left hand, do circles with the first finger of the right hand.

To treat parenthesis lines, place finger and thumb at lower end, gnipping upward, pinching the flesh lightly and drawing it up.

Beautiful teeth are an important detail of the composition of beauty. Discolorations and defects so mar good looks that there's no chance of lining up in the beauty chorus.

Constipation Can Be Cured with Proper Diet

Doctor Says Ideal Treatment Is to Replace Cathartics with Food

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
The ideal thing for the treatment of constipation is to replace drugs or cathartics with diet. I believe that any human intestinal tract on earth, whether it is supposed to be constipated or not, will respond to a diet with a proper amount of bulk.

There is an old piece of nonsense in all the textbooks about the two varieties of constipation—spastic and atonic. I do not believe there is any such distinction. I believe they are all atonic and, therefore, they will all benefit from the same type of diet.

In general, the proper diet for constipation is one which has a considerable bulk in it. These foods having a large proportion of indigestible residue which is not absorbed and remains inside the intestinal canal are best. The residue acts as a mild stimulant to the intestinal muscular movements.

Fruits Are Staples

Fruits are staples of anti-constipation diets. Not only do they have the large residue required, but their juices also have moderate cathartic properties, especially apples. At the Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago, when that great clinician was alive, applesauce used to be called "Dr. Sippy's cathartic." Molasses and honey have the same properties; so has ginger.

High residue diets are valuable for any case of constipation. For people with sedentary occupations, such as girls confined to stuffy offices all day, sitting at a typewriter, they furnish a good antidote to the effects of their occupation. But for the "colitis" type of bowel they may be too irritating.

Such foods are as follows:

Soups—Stock soups with vegetables.

Vegetables—Spinach, peas, beans, corn, cauliflower, cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, celery, onions.

Cereals—Oats, mush, hominy (cooked cereals with bran).

Breads—Bran, wholewheat, gram.

Fruits—Prunes, dates, figs, raisins, oranges, apples, berries with seeds, peaches, melons.

Fluids Suggested

Fluids—Water in abundance, weak coffee, new cider, unfermented grape juice, buttermilk.

Cake—Ginger snaps, gingerbread.

Desserts—Fruit ices, date or fig puddings, agar-agar gelatin.

Miscellaneous—Marmalade, honey, molasses in moderate amounts, popcorn.

Balance your meals, have variety each time, using meats, vegetables, fruits, etc., with each meal. Eat some fresh or cooked fruits every night before going to bed.

Arrange your meals systematically and stick to your schedule. Regularity in meal time is one of the most important elements in treatment. It means educating your gastro-intestinal tract to receive stimuli regularly.

Drink plenty of water between meals. Drink two glasses of water (hot or cold) immediately on arising.

Constipating foods are: Tea, cocoa, tapioca, cheese, sweet milk, eggs, salted fish, rich puddings, fried foods.

Questions and Answers

J. G. C.: "Please name all the substances in marshmallows. Do they cause hives in some people?"

Answer: Marshmallows are made up principally of gelatin and sugar. They have some egg white in them and people who are sensitive to eggs may eat marshmallows ignorant of his ingredient, and suffer a hypersensitive reaction as a consequence.

Marshmallows have a good deal of energy value but their nutritional value is not high because gelatin is not a complete protein, and there is not enough egg white in them to serve as a "complete" protein.

L. L. P.: "Please tell us something about continued numbness of the hands."

Answer—This condition is likely to be due to anemia. It indicates poor circulation and sometimes is the first symptom of a nervous paralysis. The best thing to do would be to consult a doctor and have an examination of the blood and the nervous system.

G. L. C.: "Will chewing dry ground coffee and spitting it, not swallowing any, harm your body or help cure a disease?"

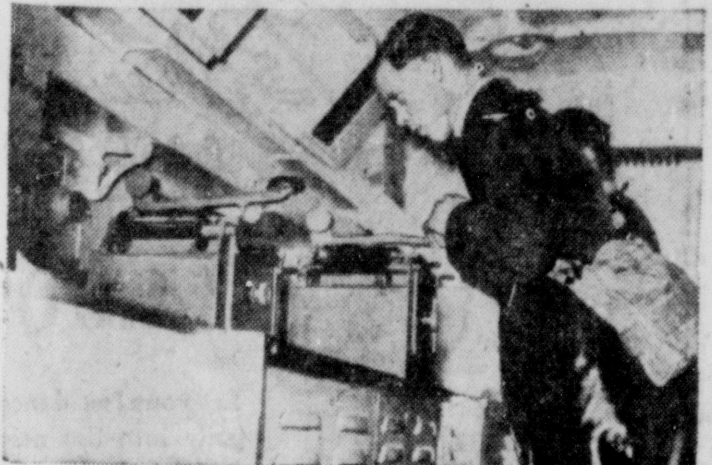

Answer—Will not harm the body. Will not help cure a disease.

C. W. R.: "Please advise treatment for sciatic rheumatism."

Answer—Heat, massage, removal of focal infection (teeth?), injection of the sciatic nerve with quinine solution.

Portraits of the Enemy

Here's What Happens to Those Pictures Taken by War Flyers

Of prime importance to a modern army engaged in actual warfare are the many photographs taken of enemy territory by reconnaissance planes. The above series of pictures shows, top, a runner bringing the photographic plates from the airplane to the mobile darkroom. An expert photographer, center, develops all of the pictures as rapidly as possible. The best prints are spread over a map of corresponding enemy territory—see bottom picture—and then are carefully scanned through powerful microscopes for hidden details—such as camouflaged gun positions, plane hangars and munition dumps.

One careful washing at night with a pure soap and other washings during the day with water alone, provides ample cleanliness for most skins.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage—Distributed, 1939, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Comes When He Feels Like It

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend and I have been going together for about six months. When we started going together he always came when he said he would, and was always on time. Now, however, he comes when he feels like it and sometimes doesn't come at all. And when I see him the next time he always has a good excuse.

My mother tells me I shouldn't sit at home and wait for him, but I really do like him a lot. He has asked me to marry him, so I guess he loves me too. Please let me know what you think of this boy.

"MICKEY"

It's the greatest mistake for a girl to let the boy friend set the time to which she dances. Sometimes the dance will develop into a funeral march of slow tempo. Your mother is quite right. Next time he feels like coming, have another engagement and don't sit at home waiting for him, whether you like him a lot or not. Few of us appreciate taken-for-granted blessings.

Affection Lost

Dear Miss Fairfax:

If it weren't for our two kids I'd take the next train to Reno and make an end of our marriage. My wife seems to be crazy about everything and everybody, outside of our home. After breakfast the dishes are piled in the sink, and she's off for the day, beds unmade, the house looking as if a cyclone had struck it.

Sometimes I get home from my office before she returns from her bridge and cocktail parties, and I find the children waiting on the porch unable to get in, cold and hungry. When I attempt to reason with her, she says: "You know what you can do."

I've entirely lost my affection I had for her and would as soon kiss a telegraph pole as the lady herself.

SO-CALLED HUSBAND.

This wife of yours sounds a little bit cracked to me, and I should insist, in your place, on having her consult a psychiatrist. If she's pronounced mentally sound, then for your children's sake you'd better take matters in hand, put them in a good school or see that they are properly cared for by some com-

Homes Need Eight-Point Test To Be Safe Beneath the Skin

AP Feature Service

The Federal Home Loan Bank board says each pedigreed—or registered—home built under the Federal Home Building Service plan, must undergo severe tests to make sure the beauty of your home isn't merely skin deep. Under the plan, the architectural x-ray is turned on a house to make certain it has features like these, which have been arranged in an exhibition on Staten Island, N. Y.

- 1—CINDER FILL under the concrete to properly cushion the foundation.
- 2—WALLS KEYED into footings so they won't loosen.
- 3—GRAVEL around drains, with heavily packed earth over it to support the soil.
- 4—CHIMNEYS INSULATED against fire.
- 5—FIRE STOPS or rock wool, concrete or some other satisfactory material.
- 6—COPPER FLASHING—on the roofing to prevent leaks.
- 7—PROPER SUPPORTS for the flooring.
- 8—PACKING in the spaces under the flooring.

petent person. A woman who locks the door and goes off to bridge and cocktail parties, leaving her children out in the cold needs a little mental investigation.

The First Move To Go

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When a boy calls at your home to take you to a party or show, who makes the first suggestion about starting out?

R. K.

It's up to the girl as hostess to suggest time for leaving.

Those "Thank-You" Notes

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I hate to write notes. Must I write a note to everyone who has sent me a wedding present? Some are Jack's friends and I don't even know them. My girl friend says I can buy very pretty illustrated cards at a stationer and send them in acknowledgment of gifts. My mother, who's a little old-fashioned, says it won't do.

BRIDE-TO-BE

Your mother is absolutely correct. It's extremely bad form to take such short cuts as illustrated cards of acknowledgment for wedding gifts or anything else for that matter. Don't be lazy. If you don't know how to write an acceptable note of acknowledgment for a present, I shall be glad to recommend a letter-writing manual which can be borrowed at your public library or bought for a dollar.

Scarberry Sent To Pen for Life

Weich, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—John Scarberry, convicted in February of slaying Fred L. Snellenberger last December at isolated Panther creek, was sentenced to life imprisonment today by Judge E. C. Marshall.

Judge Marshall overruled a defense motion to set aside the verdict.

Five others who were in the car with Scarberry the night Snellenberger was killed are in jail awaiting trial at the next term of court.

Testimony at Scarberry's trial disclosed that Snellenberger was killed when he went out to investigate a noise near his home. Defense witnesses contended the sextet had stopped their car to get water for the radiator and that Snellenberger fired at the machine.

Spring uncovering of winter protection from such plants as boxwood, roses and other tender or semi-hardy shrubs should be done on a cloudy, misty day. Uncover such plants a part at a time to enable them to acclimate themselves before being fully exposed.

Way Is Found For Stopping The Drink Habit

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX, Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage — Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Is your husband, fiancé, or father on too intimate terms with John Barleycorn?

"Alcoholics Anonymous" may be the solution. It's a completely informal group of 500 men in which John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has been interested for the past two and a half years, and which came into being four years ago.

Andrew L. Scott, who presided at a recent dinner for the members, given by Mr. Rockefeller, explained the workings of the group, as a socially-minded observer. He is the joint author of a book called "Toward Liquor Control," which he wrote in collaboration with Raymond B. Foodick. He is also a trustee of the Riverside church and chairman of the Foreign Missions Inquiry Commission.

Like too much salt in a salad, I hate to use the words agony and agonizing, but sometimes those sobriety epithets are the only words which describe letters coming to this column from distraught women who see their homes wrecked, their husbands jobless, their children facing a life of failure, on account of alcoholism.

In Middle Life

This disease, for disease it is, so often gets a decent citizen in middle life. Those years, when disillusionment sets in, and a man realizes he is not going to accomplish all those fine things he dreamed of in early youth, and the fear of losing his job and having no old-age security gnaws and drives him to forgetfulness at any cost.

The founder of the "Alcoholics Anonymous" Society was a traveling salesman, succumbing to alcoholism and seriously ill in a New York hospital. This man decided he could not rely upon himself or medical cures to stop his drinking, and made up his mind to call on some outside influence to help him. He was an agnostic, but nevertheless he believed there were certain "spiritual forces" in the universe for such cases as his, and he determined to call on those forces for help.

To his surprise, after repeated struggles, he found that his appetite for liquor was diminishing and he told his discovery to a friend who was also a heavy drinker, and that, according to Mr. Scott, was the beginning of the movement.

Like the Chain Letter

It was something like a chain letter system at first. Each person who was helped by a belief in those "spiritual forces" told someone else, and before long the idea had spread through several states and hundreds of persons were writing for information and begging to be cured.

When the business began to get out of hand some representatives of the group called on Mr. Rockefeller and asked for advice. He advised them to retain their amateur standing and offered to contribute what little money was needed for members of the group who had to travel to interview prospective converts.

It was Mr. Rockefeller who called the attention of the organization to Mr. Scott, who has become interested in the group's work. To be benefited by this movement, one must have faith not only in the spiritual forces but in oneself.

Cries for More

The hardest part of the cure is, of course, in the initial stages. When alcohol is in the human system, it cries out for additional ration. If it were not so tragic, there would be something funny in the fact that as long as a body contains alcohol, like Oliver Twist, it asks for more.

So successful has been this movement that certain physicians are looking into the working principles of the "Alcoholic Anonymous" society. It goes without saying that the movement appeals only to such patients who want to be cured, and is out of the question for those who prefer to lead a sordid existence.

Family's Christmas Is Four Months Late

Alpine, Wyo., March 26 (AP) — Christmas arrived here three months late for a Wyoming family on a mountain ranch thirty miles southeast of here.

Snowbound since winter set in last fall, Rex Young made his "regular trip" by skis to the Alpine postoffice Saturday so that "the folks could read their Christmas cards on Easter."

"If the weather stays good, we should get out Easter mail by Memorial day," he commented.

AP Feature Service

Miami, Fla. — Florida's Seminole Indians, proud and unconquered, are showing signs of emerging from the hundred years of primitive life that made them the lost tribe in the Everglades.

Motor roads penetrating their once silent, impassable domain, and the steady encroachment of the white man's civilization, facilitated by drainage of large parts of the Everglades, have caused some council leaders to determine upon a change of policy that points toward a new life for these red men.

School Does It

The evidence of the change is a thing that seems absurdly simple to white people. To Seminoles, it was a world-shaking. They asked for a school.

Being wards of the government, they got their school on their reservation at Brighton, near Lake Okechobee. But some of the tribe will have nothing to do with it. Dissenters keep their children away and attend no school function themselves. They think it degrading to ask a favor of the government.

It was this spirit which 100 years ago led to the Seminole Indian War, one of the most disastrous ever fought by the United States.

Creeks Had a Word

The Seminoles were not a distinct tribe. Their name is a Creek word meaning "runaway," or "wanderer." They split away from their home tribes, the Miccosukees, Choc-taws and Creeks of Alabama and Georgia, over the question of whether they should oppose the English, who were settling Georgia and South Carolina, or the Spanish, who occupied Florida. Those who favored the Spanish migrated to Florida and got their name of Seminoles.

When the United States took possession of Florida, it was decided to move the Indians to a Western reservation. Some went, but others resisted. Young Ocoela led the opposition.

Summoned before military authorities for conferences, Charlie Emathla, the chief, said:

"White people live in towns where many thousands work together on small ground. The Seminole is a wild and scattered people. The Seminole swims the streams and leaps over the legs of the forest in pursuit of game that makes its nest at night from the spot where it dashed the dew from the grass and flowers of the morning. For a hundred summers the Seminoles warrior has rested under the shade of his live oaks, and the sun of a hundred winters have risen upon his pursuit of the buck and bear. I will take this talk to my people, and see if they will move."

A Cutting Statement

With Ocoela, things went differently. Facing U. S. Army officials, he snatched a hunting knife and drove it through the treaty.

"That is the only treaty I will make with the white men," he said, and stalked into the forest. A few days later he killed Emathla, took command and war started.

One of its most deadly battles was the Dade Massacre. On Dec. 28, 1835, Brevet Major Francis L. Dade marched with 139 men from Tampa for Fort King. In the forest they were ambushed. Only two white men escaped.

For seven years the war dragged on. At the end, the remnant of the Indian tribe retreated into the Everglades. The war cost 2,000 white lives and $20,000,000.

To this day the council of elders has made no formal peace with the white men. There are fewer than 600 Seminoles left, and now it appears they may emerge from their long isolation.

Wheat Exports Decrease 70,000,000 Bushels

Washington, March 27. (AP)—The Agriculture department estimated today that American exports of wheat, including flour, would total about 45,000,000 bushels during the marketing season ending June 30, or about 70,000,000 less than the 115,000,000 bushels of the previous season.

Looking even farther ahead, the department said exports in the coming season probably would continue small, despite indications of a smaller world crop.

American prices have averaged considerably above those in other surplus-producing countries this season, and that fact, the department said, had contributed to the decline in exports.

It added that prices in this country were expected to average higher than competitive world prices as long as the government continued to make loans to growers on unneeded portions of the crop and domestic production was not large.

Despite fall and winter drought conditions in the domestic winter wheat belt, the department said present indications pointed to an American wheat supply of 90,000,000 bushels for the 1940-41 season. Such a supply, it said, would be 240,000,000 bushels in excess of domestic requirements.

Modernism in the Nth Degree

AP Feature Service

This desk may not be within your means, but it gives you an idea of how modernistic furniture is faring in 1940. This is what furniture people call "high style." It was displayed at the Chicago Merchandise Mart and is the product of a maker of high-priced furniture. The desk is of light-tone mahogany with a top like an ironing board. The type-writer fits into its drawer sideways. The chair is upholstered in leather.

Press Agent's Dream Come True

Tulsa, Okla., (AP)—This is no publiclicity gas.

Miss Iva Stoeffel, store cashier, reported there were two reserved tickets to 1940's most popular movie production among other valuable a gunman took when he held her up.

Police watched the reserved seat. Sure enough, just before curtain time a comely girl entered and sat down.

She had purchased her ticket from a cab driver. Police traced the driver to the jail, where he was held on robbery charges.

He'd got the ticket he said, from two other guys.

Can't Stick 'Em

Manhattan, Kans. (AP)—U. S. mailmen apparently can figure out anything. With no delay they delivered a California letter addressed to Mrs. Al Perlmann, of 216a Poyntz ave., in this manner: ne numerad, 216a; a picture of a pointed hand; a man with a hat upon his head and a picture of a sunflower, the Kansas state flower.

Lawns may be raked of winter debris as soon as the ground begins to dry and firm itself somewhat. Re-seeding and top-dressing of lawns should be done as soon as a lawn can be raked since an early start is essential for new grass in the spring.

Today's GARDEN-GRAPH

CUT OPEN TO SHOW EGGS

BAGGING THE BAGWORM

This is the time of the year when wise gardeners go hunting in the hope of bagging the Bagworm. When a Bagworm is located hanging from a twig on trees or shrubs it can easily be hand-picked and burned.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, the bag of Bagworm is really a rags-and-tatters affair, with the outside composed of garden debris. The bag is about 2 inches long and is protected by bits of leaves, stems and twigs, while the inside is luxuriously lined with silk.

The Bagworms are leaf-eating insects which have a special fondness for arbor-vitae, red cedar, willows and silver maples. They also will thrive on the foliage of other types of evergreens, shade trees and shrubs.

The eggs within the bag hatch in spring (May or June) and for protection against the feeding of the larvae, foliage should be sprayed with arsenate of lead at this time.

Who Wouldn't?

St. Joseph, Mo., (AP)—An Indiana woman wrote to Minnie L. Gordon, public administrator, and said she would like to have $3,000 or $4,000 of the $14,000 that the administrator had declined to send to Germany in settlement of a Missouri estate.

The Indian said she wanted the money "just to fool my husband and show him I have some money of my own."

Start vegetables such as cabbage, cauliflower, celery, eggplant, leek, lettuce, onion, pepper and tomato in the hotbed or in flats in a sunny window. Sow early peas, spinach and radishes as soon as the vegetable garden can be worked.

Steels Advance Sharply and List Follows in a Million Share Day

United States Steel Dividend Starts Sharp Rally in Market

New York, March 27. (AP)—Cleared by an unexpected United States Steel Corp. dividend, buyers moved into Wall Street in force today, showing prices of leading issues as much as four points higher.

Steels jumped at the opening on overnight commissions and moved higher as shorts covered.

Some of the fastest trading of the session came in the last quarter-hour when many high marks of the day were set, only to slip by eighths in the final minutes.

The Associated Press average of sixty selected stocks climbed 7 1/2 points—the biggest single-day jump since last October 17—10.50. Transactions totaled 1,191,570 shares—the largest session since last November 9—compared with 622,700 yesterday.

The bell-wether of the stock, U. S. Steel, knocked all day at the 58-60 level, but never broke through.

The chief gainers included Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown, General Motors, Chrysler, Harvester, Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry, Lockheed, American Telephone, Western Union, Ancon, New York Central, Southern Railway, Great Northern Preferred, Air Reduction, Westinghouse and Allied Chemical. New highs for the year were reached and held by Bendix, United Air Lines, Loews, Canada Dry, White Rock and Commercial Solvents.

Rising briskly in the curb—where transactions totaled 277,000 shares—compared with 167,000 yesterday—were Aluminum Co. of America, Hygrade, Sylvania, Fairchild Engineering and Aircraft, Brewster Aero and Bell Aircraft.

Care Should Be Used in Picking Name for Baby

First Name Should Sound Properly with the Surname

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

The given name for persons dates from the very beginning of language, but down to the time of Christ there were no surnames. We read of the Son of Joseph, Jesus of Nazareth, of the House of David.

Surnames were first taken on by nobles; the common people later imitated the nobles. Even as late as 1465 surnames were not common. At that time King James V. of England, had a law passed to compel certain Irish outlaws to take surnames. "They shall take unto them a surname, either of some Towne, or some Colour as Black or Brown, or some Art or Science, as Smyth or Carpenter, or some office as Cooke or Butler." To this day there are no surnames in some remote parts of Ireland.

Consider Its Sound

In choosing a name for your child, it is well to consider how it will sound with the family name. If the family name is a short one, you would not choose a long first name. Nor would you want the first and last name to sound much alike, as Bertha Murtha. It is also well to choose a name that cannot easily be turned to an undesirable nickname.

Middle names should be chosen in like fashion. Some omit the trying honestly one summer to make the distinction, referred to the two of us as Young Garry and Old Garry. But this was not the worst. I have, by mistake, opened his mail. To a high school youth this is a serious offense. But I am glad to report that for almost a year now I have a clear record, being more careful than I would have to be if he had another first name.

You might want to know the meaning and origin of the name to be chosen. There are books and dictionaries of given names. You may have a free list of such books by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. I also have prepared a list of common and uncommon names for boys

Solving Parent Problems

Q. Should parents be so much concerned about good manners in their children?

A. Yes; but they should find ways of training their children in good manners without eternally nagging at them. An occasional quiet suggestion in a tone of gentleness and love, aided and abetted by good example, seems to bring best results.

In the United States forty-four states out of the forty-eight have deferred registration of motor vehicles, allowing a breathing spell of from two to three months from the former Jan. 1 deadline to procure license plates.

More than 6,000 rulings were made by the Postoffice Department in the last fiscal year as to whether certain mail violated the anti-lottery law.

Showers for Girls Create Splash among City Fathers

By RAY MACKLAND
Central Press Correspondent
Council Bluffs, Ia., March 27.—Girl physical education pupils in the local high schools can't take shower baths at school without written consent of their parents and upon their own individual option.

A spirited fuss has been kicked up by complaint of E. V. Gustafson, school board member, prominent in civic activities, who maintains that archery, rifle practice and shower baths included in the girls' physical training curriculum are of relatively little value, considering the cost.

Gustafson's objections to showers are that they take too much time, and are not necessary when classes participate in the less strenuous sports. Dr. Christine Erickson-Hill, another school board member, defends showers with the statement that modern girls demand more vigorous exercises than did their mothers of the clinging-vine days.

"Let Doctor Decide"

G. W. Kirn, principal of Abraham Lincoln High school, declares the school will be glad to drop showers completely whenever Council Bluffs physicians tell him the girls would be better off without them.

In a two-page statement, Gustafson said several parents complained to him about the necessity of more than one girl using the same shower compartment at the same time.

"Many of the girls resent this," he said, "and their mothers register strenuous objection when their daughters are compelled to violate the rules of modesty taught them in the home."

Other parents, Gustafson declared, have reported that their daughters contracted foot infections requiring medical attention. He added that the state law requiring physical education does not require showers and that the course should not be so strenuous "as to affect the health interest of our girls."

Not in Winter

Principal Kirn and Mary Nix, Abraham Lincoln physical education instructor, points out that showers never have been compulsory, or even expected in cold weather, that foot baths of disinfectant provided by the board of education are supervised, that girls are excused from all physical exercise whenever necessary and that

"every consideration is given their health."

Because of crowded conditions, and to save time, they admit "girls go by pairs to the showers, but any girl who wished to take her shower alone was given that privilege. Every condition of modesty possible under the crowded locker condition is rigorously maintained. Girls are dismissed at staggered times to avoid congestion of the locker rooms."

Ray Myers, principal, and Hannah Nyholm, physical education instructor at Thomas Jefferson, report that girls are not compelled to take showers, that there is provision for privacy for girls desiring it, and that girls who do not take them can achieve a satisfactory rating by outlining chapters in hygiene instead. About five per cent of the 620 girls enrolled there do not take showers.

Lively Topic

More than 150 persons attended one spirited school board session at which the shower question was discussed. Many voiced protests against compulsory baths, and Gustafson said that "the more I investigated the more I found pupils living under a 'fear psychology'."

Although the board finally ordered written parental consent for showers, it laid over for future action any changes in the girls' physical training curriculum.

TAKE A TIP FROM THE Persians

FORGET what a long, hard winter it's been... It's Spring and the Income Tax is paid.

Take a tip from a wise old Persian named Omar Khayyam—you were put into this world to have fun!

Go find a shady glade a million miles from care—and let the rest of the world drift by.

We'd like to add—go in a new Nash—and have fun getting there. You never felt a car so full of life... so quick... so quiet in action.

From that first excited "whee" to the last astonished "Oh!" as you slip into the swiftness of the Fourth Speed Forward, this Nash is a new adventure in driving.

And nothing was so deceiving, beguiling as its cradle-gentle Arrow-

Flight pace. Every mile's so velvet-smooth you can't believe that ruts or bumps exist.

But let a lonesome truck buzz ahead or block the way—you just tap the Automatic Overtake and sweep by in a terrific burst of power.

Later on—just twirl a dial and magically the air is cleared... warmed, if it's chilly, to the comfort you desire—by Nash's Weather Eye. As on you go—further away from the noisy city... you'll wonder how they knew what you wanted—when they built this Nash.

Fortunately "looks" are deceiving—or a Nash would cost a million. Every bit of Nash's engineering skill... and $45,000,000 in resources back this one make of car.

Nash gives you a double frame chassis... a 7-bearing crankshaft... the world's only Manifold-Sealed Engine—and big Convertible Bed.

It was a winner in the 1940 Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run with 23.76 miles per gallon.

And big as it is, it's only a few dollars more than a smaller All-3 car.

Come on in. See Nash's new Engineering Exhibit and have the fun of driving a Nash.

Reds and Giants May Work Out Mutual Trade

McKeechie Seeks Gardener; Terry A Third Baseman

Low Riggs Chief Subject of New Overtures by New York

Tampa, Fla., March 27 (AP)—If General Manager Warren Giles of the Cincinnati Reds and Bill Terry of the Giants get together in a day or two—and there were rumors today that they might—don't be surprised if they turn up with a third base-outfield deal.

A game between the two teams was called off today because of rain but the hot-stove league functioned full blast with reports that "Mebane" Lew Riggs, utility third sacker was the subject of new overtures.

It's no secret that Terry has had his eyes on the North Carolinian—most anyone, in fact who could fill the hot corner as successor to Mel Ott, George Myatt, Tom Hefey and a flock of others who took turns there last year after the veteran Lou Chiozza broke his leg.

Terry's trouble at third paralleled Bill McKeechie's left field problem and there were hints the pair might come up with a mutually advantageous deal.

The Reds' squad was reduced by two today with the shipment of rookie hurler Lloyd Dietz to the Pittsburgh Pirates on waivers and resale to Indianapolis of outfielder Milt Galatz.

Bob Wade of the Camel Backs shattered one Kelly Springfield League record and paved the way for another when he led his mates to a 3-0 victory over the Registereds last week at the Club with a set of 641.

His 179-227-235-641 went into the books as a new high, the old record of 601 having been held by Howard "Shorty" Radcliffe of the Registereds.

With Wade's big set and M. Hornick's 522, the Camel Backs broke the team set record of 2,732, held by Dispatch, with 2,781. The Camel Backs were over 900 in all their games, getting 914 the first, 938 the second and 929 the third.

The Registereds, with Radcliffe having 214-527, trail Dispatch by three games as a result of their defeat. Dispatch won a pair from the Kant Slips to add two games to its margin. In the other matches, the Buckeyes bested the Coasters 2-1 and the Commercial won three from the Kellys.

Schramm's 503 topped the Kant slips while Miller paced Dispatch with 225-526. Other team leaders were S. Hornick, Coasters, 450; Utz, Buckeyes, 446; Steiner, Commercial, 467; and Witherspoon, Kellys, 415. The summaries:

Too Many Passengers Are On Cardinals' Bandwagon

By JOHN LARDNER

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 27.—(NANA)—The Cardinal bandwagon, which your correspondent launched last year in defiance of Branch Rickey, and which all the boys are now hopping aboard—ain't there any other wagon in town—is beginning to lurch from port to starboard.

The fact is, we have too many passengers. From now on, this being my wagon, we will charge a slight fare of $1 a head to all those who pick the Cards and climb aboard the vehicle.

There is only one thing left to do as I see it. You readers will have plenty to occupy your minds around the end of next September, so we can save time and trouble by dropping the World Series now.

The World Series will be between the St. Louis Cardinals and (A) the New York Yankees or (B) the Boston Red Sox. Let's first examine case (A).

Ruffing May Pitch Opener

McCarthy will probably start Charlie Ruffing on the mound in the first game, to be played as you know, at Sportsman's Park, St. Louis. It's going to be a novelty, even for the Yankees, to see more than twelve customers in that grandstand. I figure that should throw them off balance and shake their morale from the very start. In fact, this is a game we ought to win.

Let's see, whom have we got. Well, Curt Davis hasn't pitched for a month. The Cards clinched the pennant on August 30, and Manager Blades decided to give Curt a long rest. That means the lean, but skillful right-hander is fresh and ready. Some of the critics don't seem to think that his soft suit will hold the Yanks, but the last soft-ball pitcher to face the Yankees was Dizzy Dean, in 1938, and with nothing on the ball he almost beat them. Why don't those critics let Blades do the thinking for this club?

Now, here's what I suggest to Blades, though of course, I won't be so if he ignores my advice. The 1-1 I won't. I suggest that after Davis, he comes in there with Mort Cooper in the second game, against Pearson. How many games did Cooper win for us this year? Oh, yes, thirty-three. Well, the boy has plenty on it, Terry Moore will pull down anything that stays inside the park.

I figure we'll go to New York for the third game with a lead of two games to nothing. If you think it's going to be easy, though, to club these Yankees down, you're wrong. We'll throw Bob Weiland or Lonnie Warneke in there for the third game, but Gomez is a great World Series pitcher. He's apt to beat us. And Ruffing, coming back for the fourth game, will even the score against McGee.

Mize Hits a Homer

This is where we shoot Davis back again. He's had enough rest—four days, counting that day off for travel. This time the Yankees begin to knock him more than somewhat, but the Cards also jumping all over Hadley (Pearson isn't ready yet). Going into the late innings, both starting pitchers are out of there, and the score is something like 6 to 6. Then Brown singles, Medwick singles, and boff! Big John Mize knocks the ball into the right field stands. His second home run of the day, incidentally.

It's my belief that the teams will return to St. Louis with the Cards holding a 3-2 lead in games. From there on, it's anybody's series. Cooper and McGee are good boys, but the Yankees have seen their stuff now, and are knocking it right back at 'em. Besides, the Cards will have a terrible time hitting anything past Gordon and Crutcher, now at their peak. Pearson and Gomez are fresh for the sixth and seventh games. I'm very much afraid that the Yanks will come from behind to win, unless we get the best of the breaks.

Looking at case (B), the Red Sox we ought to be able to dust them off in six games. They just haven't got the pitching for a World Series. Hitting was the pennant for them, hitting and nice, tight work in the field, but Wilson was awful lucky to win those twenty-two games, and Rich had to have relief in twelve of the eighteen games he won. It was just the hitting that saved his record.

The boys who may be tough for the Cardinals are those southpaws, Grove (He only won thirteen) and Ostermuller, having his first big year. Medwick will hit them, but will Mize? That's our problem, but on the whole, the better pitchers should win.

That will be a nice break for us, too, when Dom Di Maggio breaks his glasses in the third inning of the fourth game and has to send to San Francisco for a new pair.

It's been a good season, and the Cards are ready for any kind of World Series. Who would have thought that Gutteridge could hit 468?

Wilmer Allison of Tennis Plans To Stage Comeback For Boul Friday

To Team with Van Ryn in Usual Ballyhoo Comes Try To Regain Old Doubles Crown

Dallas, Tex., March 27, (AP)—Outspoken Wilmer Allison, a spry "old man" in his middle thirties who once ruled the American tennis roost, conferred today:

1. The team of Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, abdicated kings of doubles tennis, probably would seek their old national title this summer.

2. Don Budge and Ellsworth Vines are better than big Bill Tilden ever was.

3. Bobby Riggs had better learn to play the net.

4. Not since Bobby Jones has there been a real sportsman in amateur golf or tennis.

"There isn't a good doubles team in the country at present," Allison said. "If Johnny and I played only fairly well we would have a chance to win the national doubles title—we think."

The Wimbledon, Davis Cup and National championships of a few years ago are still teaming together in an Austin brokerage office.

Scores Old Times

Allison asserted: "There are more good tennis players in this country now than ever before. All this hue and cry about the old greats is a lot of bosh."

"Budge or Vines are better than Tilden ever was. Sure, Tilden stood out in those days, head and shoulders above the rest—but he never had a match until he got to the final rounds in most of those tournaments."

"To win now, you've got to be good every day—and still have enough left for the final round."

"Show me anyone in tennis or golf (among the amateurs) that has the innate sportsmanship of Bob Jones," Allison said.

"If the United States wants to get that Davis Cup back from Australia at the end of this current unpleasantness—the war—we must develop a really fine doubles team and at least two or three aggressive singles players."

"And I don't mean the Bobby Riggs type—hanging around the baseline waiting for the other fellow to miss."

Cage Officials Will Organize Board Here

Leading basketball officials of Allegheny and Mineral counties, at a meeting on Tuesday at the Central Y. M. C. A., agreed to form a Cumberland Maryland and Eastern West Virginia Board of the National Association of Approved Basketball Officials, under jurisdiction of the Hagerstown board.

The local group will be a subdivision of the Hagerstown unit but will act independently in such matters as calling meetings and making interpretations.

John J. Long, Port Hill High football coach and well known court referee, was named vice-president and representative of the group.

The Diamonds from the South End won three games from the Cumberland Outdoor Club by forfeit this week when the latter team failed to put in its appearance at the Savoy and added another game to their lead in the last half dash of the City Bowling League.

The first half champions are five games ahead of Club Recreation, which copped a pair from Embassy at the Club. In the other match, SS. Peter and Paul copped three from Martin's Market on the Saints' lanes.

Los Amato with 193-512 and Paul Stakem with 185-488 paced Club with 202-503. SS. Peter and Paul was led by Paul Cloni with 205-500. George sparked the Marketers with 213-478.

Next Sunday, Embassy will invade SS. Peter and Paul, Diamond and Martin's Market will meet at the Savoy and the Outdoor Club will go to Club Recreation. The summaries:

Louis-Paychek Wind Up Drills For Boul Friday

Usual Ballyhoo Comes from Camps with Odds 1 to 8

New York, March 27 (AP)—School let out today for Joe Louis and Johnny Paychek, with each positive he'd walk out of Madison Square Garden's ring Friday night wearing the crown of world's heavyweight champion.

Louis wound up training with four rounds of boxing against three sparring partners, placing particular emphasis on settling his training camp "feud" with Clarence Brown, a pretty-good Chicago boxer who has taken some sparring liberties with the "bossman" in recent workouts. As a result, the Bomber pitched at Clarence for two heats, gave him a pretty good dose of "what for" and then confidently predicted he'd make short work of the Des Moines fiddler come Friday in his tenth defense of the crown.

Paychek on the other hand, spared three rounds, concentrating on speed, speed, and more speed—the factor he thinks will end the Bomber's reign.

Afterward, the Iowan figured as how he'd have a better chance to flatten Joe "somewhere inside the first five rounds" than he would have of outpointing him.

Once Boxed Louis

He let the folks in on a secret—that he once boxed with the Bomber, when Louis was training for a fight in Chicago with Lee Ramage in 1935.

"We went two rounds," he recalled. "And I remember that I could jab him and hit him with right hands. In fact, we both scored with rights, and I drew blood from Joe's nose."

In spite of Johnny's confidence, the betting fraternity wasn't at all convinced. They still figured Louis was 1 to 3 to win and better than 1 to 2 to sing an "Oh Johnny, Oh, Lullaby" with his fist long before the 15-round route was covered.

With the Finnish Relief Fund cutting deep in the "cake," all signs pointed to a gate of $75,000 or thereabouts and a crowd of 15,000 or so.

Both bellies will take things easy tomorrow. There's nothing to do but eat dinner, sleep and "come out fighting" when the bell rings.

Parsons High Scorers

Parsons, W. Va., March 27—Coach Myrl Kepner has announced the number of points scored by the Parsons High school basketball team during the regular scheduled basketball season. The Panthers scored a total of 636 points to their opponents 607.

Frank Bowley was high scoring man with a total of 181 points. Dow Cox scored 104 points, Jim Griffith 80, Bob Wolf 77, Denver Strawdman 74, Tom Shaffer 45, Maynard Harsh 29, Richard Riley 22, Fred Parsons 20, Harry Long 9, Meredith Lambert 7, Lonnie Schumaker 3, Harper Lambert 2, Harry Pinny 2, and Jennings Scott 1.

Goodfellowship League

Sweep victories in the Goodfellowship Club League this week were checked in by the Royal Crown outfit over the Trunkers, Knippenburgs over the Bice crew and Nehi over the Collins combination while in the other match, the Leasures bested the Dyches 2-1. All contests were on the club's alleys. E. Stevenson of Nehi had high set with 201-569. The summaries:

THEY MEET IN NEW YORK AS LOUIS DEFENDS CROWN

The Sportlight by GRANTLAND RICE

THE TYPE TO BEAT LOUIS

Everybody having come to the conclusion that while Joe Louis is one of the great fighters of all time, he isn't invincible—any more than Dempsey, Tunney, Johnson, Fitz, Corbett or any of the other undoubtedly great fighters was invincible. There has been an argument going on for some time among the experts as to the type of fighter best fitted to beat the bomber.

There is room for argument. He has been dropped by punchers and confused by clever or elusive opponents. Which is the type to beat him? The rugged puncher who can withstand his heaviest blows and hit him on the chin? Or the fellow who can step around him, stab him, bob away from him and stall him on the single track on which he fights? Remember that it isn't necessary for him to be knocked out to lose his title.

Louis had trouble with Tommy Farr, a rugged fellow who couldn't punch—with Tony Galento, a rugged fellow who could—with Bob Pastor, who pedaled his way to drop a close decision in ten rounds in their first fight and went to the eleventh round of their second after getting off the floor four times in the first round. In his last time out, he had considerable trouble with Arturo Godoy, who switched for that fight from his upright style and confounded Joe with a style that was a combination of a bunny-hug and a gorilla walk.

It May Help

So we shall have to wait and see what Louis can do with the best boxer in the corn belt—who cannot take a punch but is planning his battle so that he will not have to. The fight may not supply the answer as to the type of opponent best fitted to take Louis, but it may help.

Meanwhile, whether Paychek turns out to be a soft touch or not, this much must be said for Louis: he moved up to the title against all sorts of opponents—boxers, fighters, cuties and clowns—and as champion, he is pursuing the same course.

Boys' Club-Market Trail Trolley Feature

LaSalle Midgits, St. Patrick's Aces, Coney Big Five Other Winners

Two upsets and a rip-roaring point for point battle featured as the South Atlantic Association A. A. U. basketball tournament opened last night on the St. Peter & Paul School court.

Coach Robert "Sparky" Chisholm's Police Boys' Club quint trimmed the White House Marketeers 33 to 25 in the feature battle and the St. Patrick's Aces, sponsored by the Maurice Department store, walloped Ray Weatherly's First Presbyterian outfit 24-12 in the other upset.

The LaSalle Midgits, fighting an uphill battle, toppled the Paw Paw Red Devils and the Cumberland Dreadnaughts, in the trolley only for the fun of it, found the Lonaconing Big Five team not in the mood to play, and dropped a 51-7 tiff in the other games.

The LaSalle Midgits-Paw Paw and the St. Patrick-Presbyterian tussles were in the 115-pound division, the Boys' Club-White House in the 145-pound and the Dreadnaught-Big Five engagement in the unlimited "B" class.

Morrissey, Geats Star Paced by Ken Morrissey and George Geats, virtually unknown in cage ranks here, the Boys' Club dazzled the small crowd with their snappy passwork and scrappy floor play, and after battling the favored White House crew on even terms in the first half, stepped out in the final half to walk off the floor with a well-earned victory. Morrissey tallied 14 points and Geats found the range for a 13-point total.

The score was tied three times during the course of the first half and the lead changed hands no less than 10 times. The Boys' Club was ahead 8-6 at the quarter, 16-13 at the midway point and 25-17 at the three-quarter mark.

The Presbyterians and Aces opened the tournament. With Center Bob Frame and Richard Nolan scoring all the points, the St. Patrick's five stepped away to a 5-2 lead at the quarter, increased it to 10-2 at the half and held a 20-7 advantage at the third quarter. The Presbyterians, lacking a smooth passing attack, were held scoreless for 14 minutes in the first part of the game. After Otis Sterne dumped in a field goal midway in the first round, the losers went without a point until after two minutes had elapsed in the third heat. Frame scored 14 counters and Nolan 10.

Midgits Stage Rally The Paw Paw Red Devils, with rangy John Clark showing the way, managed to stay in front of the LaSalle Midgits for two periods after a deadlocked first frame, in the second game of the evening, but couldn't stave off the closing rush of the Midgits in a hectic last quarter.

The Red Devils were ahead 11-9 at the half and 19-15 at the end of three periods but could tally only one marker as the Midgits gathered seven in the final semester. Englebach, with two minutes gone in the fourth session, pumped in a long goal to knot the figures at 20-11 and Devitt, a sub, scored a few minutes later, the basket that clinched the battle.

In the concluding game the over-weight Dreadnaughts were completely outclassed by the fast Lonaconing Big Five and faded out of the picture after the first quarter which ended 11-1. Tally Hanna and Buzz Frizzell each tallied 11 points to lead the winners' attack. The lineup:

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Miami Beach, Fla., March 27. (AP)—The tepid waters lap lazily against the walled banks of the Venetian canal hard by the hotel. In all directions is the green expanse of a golf course, with the soft breeze ruffling the fronds of the coconut palms. Wisteria replaces hysteria, and the scent of Azaleas, Jasmine and Gardenias forms a fragrant wall against the harsh realities of life. A great place for peace-loving Ferdinand.

The Phillies are here, too. Yes, sir, down here as far from the madding group of other Major League clubs as the Phillies promise to be all season, Doc Prothro is trying to build a team which he hopes will finish at least a respectable last, instead of eighteen games out of seventh place, as in 1939.

It's no fault of the good doctor, a grand gentleman, and baseball men will tell you, a fine manager. You can't build a mansion out of old planks or immature saplings, and through lack of farm connections and, apparently, money for the kitty, that is what Prothro is forced to try to do.

He has about four ball players above the average in ability. The rest are either old or young, tried too much or tried too little, with a sprinkling of good, journeyman performers who can hold a job but couldn't win a championship.

The four standbys are pitchers Hugh Mulcahy and Kirby Higbe, both A-1 men; outfielder Morrie Aronovich, who Prothro says carried the club the first three months last year, and Merrill May, dependable third baseman.

Added to this group of tried players are such veterans as the Johnson boys, Syl and Si, pitchers; pitcher Walter Beck; first baseman Gus Suhr, and catcher Walter Milles.

However, it is on youngsters that Prothro is basing his hope of finishing before dark. Three of them, to be exact. They are Dan Little, an outfielder picked up while roaming free, Robert Kohn, a shortstop who right now looks like the prize of the camp, and Ed Levy, first baseman for whom the Phillies put up $15,000, conditionally. Levy was with Newark, and at one time was looked upon as Gehrig's possible successor.

Little had a knee operation last October, and Levy has been bothered by a lame ankle, so Prothro is withholding judgement on them. He really likes Bragan, and thinks the ex-Pensacola player will fill the bill when he gets over the jitters.

"Our real need," Prothro says, "is power, and we may make some trades before the start of the season. But we won't," he added hastily, "trade our best men."

"Our pitching was good last year. We lost only a number of 2-1, 3-2 and 4-3 games. We just couldn't get the runs. I'm not worried over the pitching. It's the power—and speed. We're pretty flat-footed, but we play a good defensive game."

Midgits Stage Rally

Pro Wrestler in Lineup of Dragon Rival Here Sunday

Torledsky's Foxes One of Columbus Lodge Wins Best Teams in Area of Johnstown

A challenge to the Cumberland Dragons to attempt to match their passing attack, issued by Manager Edward Giltinan of Torledsky's Foxes, one of the premier teams of the Johnstown area, has been accepted by the Dragons who will meet the Foxes Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m.

The Foxes with a record of 24 wins and three defeats, have defeated the best amateur teams in the Tri-State area, and their three losses were by low scores to about the toughest road teams in the country. A three-point loss to the Original New York Celtics, featuring Dutch Dehnert, Walt Miller and Paul Birch, all who have appeared against the Cumberland Collegians, Dehnert with the Celtics and Miller and Birch with the Pittsburgh Pirates; a four-point loss to the Uniontown Independents and an eight-point loss to the Pirates are the only blots on the Foxes' record.

The Pirates defeated the Collegians this year, while the Independents bowed 44-35 in a hard-fought game. Dehnert, the master of the pivot, started the Foxes' passing was the best they had met this year.

Pro Wrestler on Team

"Giggle" Galardi, a great defensive man, and "Tarzan" Zelko, who wrestles professionally in Philadelphia, are the starting guards for the Foxes. At center is Pete Matijevic, leading scorer in the Johnstown City League the past several years. Herbie Wertz, one-time Southern Methodist set-shot stylist, takes care of a forward spot, along with Dave Giltinan, formerly of the University of Utah.

Coach Kenneth "Hank" Lindsay's class dragons, while having no individual stars, expect to show the Foxes one of the smoothest passing and shooting amateur teams in this section. Led by Jimmy Stakem, Bill Schaidt, "Hink" Bowman, "Snooks" Winters, Harry Rowan and Ed Athey, the Dragons have developed a well rounded offense.

In the past few weeks they scored victories over Allegheny high, state scholastic champs, Sam's Candy Kitchen, South End Loop leaders, and suffered a hard fought 41-39 defeat by the Cumberland Collegians. By these games the Dragons brought themselves to the top of the local amateur heap. Lindsay's boys have entered the A.A.U. tournament here, and have been seeded to the finals in the unlimited division against the winner of Friday night's Harris Restaurant-Sam's Candy Kitchen game.

Having tied for the lead with a two-under-par 69 at the Starmount Forest Country Club last Saturday, he went that one better today with a 68. Thereby he pushed himself into sole possession of first place with a 137 and a margin of three strokes over Gerie Sarazen and Ralph Guldahl.

"Hogan is hot" would be rank understatement. He has missed only three greens in his last 36 holes. Two of those came this afternoon. He was out in 34 and back in the same, shooting three birdies and 15 pars and even saving his pars on the two holes where he missed the carpet.

Three Derby Eligibles

Show Speed in Workouts

Louisville, March 27. (AP)—Three Kentucky Derby eligibles gave railbirds at Churchill Downs a thrill today by the early-season speed they showed in workouts.

Black Brummel, the A. L. Ferguson Derby hopeful, rattled off half a mile in 49 1-5, and the John March nominee, Displayer, stepped off four furlongs in 50 3-5 under steady wraps. Another eligible, Blue Flyer, being conditioned by Roscoe Goose for March went the same distance in 51 4-5 without effort.

Trainer Charley Ferguson waved down the boy on Black Brummel when his watch showed the big horse—he is 16.3 hands—had stepped the first quarter in 23 2-5 exhibition games.

Garrett & Zilch Easily Turn Back Pirates 31 to 17

Columbus Lodge Wins Over Smith's Grocers by 40-29

The Garrett & Zilch cagers had an easy time defeating the Post Pirates to a tune of 31 to 17 while the Columbus Lodge won their second victory of the final half with a 40 to 29 win over the cellar dwellers Smith Grocers.

The G & Z's led by Rus "Pop" Coakley who scored ten points entering this game as a sub and the floor play of "Snapper" Morris were the standout players while Homer Server scored six points for the Buc's. The winners and present league leaders were way out in front at half time 28 to 7.

The Smith crew had the Columbus boys a little worried in the first half when they were scoring point for point until the last few seconds of the first half. The winners started their reserves but played only a few minutes when they could not score on the Smith defense. Led by Art Spoltore and Jim Angelotta who each scored a dozen tallies were the winners outstanding players while Bill Fisher scored the same number for the losers.

The Dyes tied the Whites for first place in the home stretch campaign of the Junior Association of the Commerce League last week at Club by defeating Pilot Jimmy White's crew 2-1. Each club has won 22 games while losing 14.

In the other match, the Reinharts grabbed a pair from John Schaidt's aggregation although outscored 1963 to 1915. The Schaidts copped the first game by 112 sticks but lost the second by 39 and the third by 25. Reinhart had 428 while Werkmeister was high for the losers with 431. Uncapher sparked the Dyes with 470 while O'Connell topped the Whites with 491. The summaries:

Vending Stands For the Blind Are Authorized

West Virginians Will Be Allowed to Operate in Federal Buildings

Charleston, W. Va., March 27. (AP)—The Department of Public Assistance announced today completion of federal-state arrangements for the licensing of the state's blind for the operation of vending stands in federal buildings.

Administrative Assistant Joseph Blackburn said the department has been designated by the Federal government as state licensing agency and would start the program before July 1.

The state has allocated $2,000 as a revolving fund for the work. Blackburn said, and will co-operate with local units in establishing the stands for the blind and partially-blind.

The system will work in this manner, he said: Applicants will be carefully chosen and their operation of the stands closely supervised.

The operators will turn over all profits to the state revolving fund and will be paid salaries.

No stand will be established in a Federal building without the custodian's consent.

Blackburn said the state would co-operate with civic organizations in the cities which can put up part of the money required. He estimated that possibly only ten stands would be established within twelve months.

Inquiries have been made by an organization at Wheeling which already has $400 for the work, and the first stand probably will be established there, Blackburn reported.

Morgantown also has made inquiry.

Establishment of the stands was authorized under the Randolph-Sheppard Act. The department was authorized to act as the licensing agency by the vocational rehabilitation division of the Federal Security Agency, Department of Education.

Blackburn emphasized that the aid "is not a donation" and that profits will be used to expand the program without loss to the state.

The Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Clapper, left today for Somerset, where she will join the Juniata College A Cappella Choir for a concert there this evening, and will accompany the organization on a ten days' tour of Western Pennsylvania, prior to returning to Huntingdon to resume her studies in Juniata College. Charles Griffith, a student of Juniata College, a Meyersdale young man, who sings baritone in the choir, also joined the organization in Somerset today.

William Hotchkiss, Miss Mary Long and John Hartman yesterday returned to resume their studies in Bridgewater College, Virginia, after spending the Easter season with relatives and friends here.

Frank E. Rowe, Los Angeles, Calif., arrived here yesterday for a visit of several weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Rowe.

During the time that the electric fire alarm is out of commission, having been badly damaged by a short circuit, fire alarms will be sounded by the steam alarm at the city heating plant, Grant street.

THE KILLER SPEAKS

RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

I, Bill Strickland, am suspected in the murder of my friend, Alfred Markham, rich young jeweler, at a party at the Rio Vista clubhouse. Captain of Detectives Clyde McDonald is convinced of my innocence, but young Coroner Silver still doubts me. The coroner is surprised to find that homicidal boots prints in the garden where Markham was killed match prints found outside the house where a boy commits suicide the following midnight. The boy was the cook's helper at the Rio Vista club.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

"I TOLD YOU the servants were mixed up in this!" exclaimed Captain McDonald, triumphantly. "We should have suspected something when Pappini, the cook, said his helper went home early."

I thought of the weeping mother downstairs. "The boy was innocent," I told the officers. "Obviously he killed himself because he had fallen into the power of this man who tossed the note of warning to him through the window."

Coroner Silver agreed with me. "I think Strickland has something there, Captain. The boy had kept his drug addiction from his mother. This man knew of it, and was holding it over him to force him into a life of crime. Rather than have his mother learn his terrible secret, or become a criminal, he chose this way out."

The captain shook his head. "Good theory, but we should stick to facts. This is too early for theories. The fact is that this boy is linked, somehow, to the killing of Alfred Markham. You can't get away from that."

The boy's name was Robert Williams, we discovered. He was 18 years old. There was little more to be learned from studying his room and his belongings.

"We can question his mother tomorrow," the captain said. "Might as well call it a night. Time we all got some sleep."

Riding back to the police station, after picking up Sullivan and his equipment, Captain McDonald asked, "By the way, Silver, since you are so sure the servants at the Rio Vista club weren't mixed up in Markham's death, just what is your theory?" There was a note of sarcasm in his voice, but the coroner didn't seem to notice it.

"There was a quarrel," said Coroner Silver slowly. He was looking at the river front lights we were passing, but without seeing them. "It took place in the rose arbor. The assailant, I believe, tried to use Strickland's pocket knife. Perhaps it was stolen out of Strickland's pocket, dealer in the night. Markham grabbed his arm, and the knife dropped. The killer then grabbed the stool and swung it over his head to knock Markham to the ground. The stool caught on the wire and broke it. Perhaps the men fell together. They would be unbalanced. The killer grabbed the mallet off the ground where they fell, knocked Markham unconscious, and to make doubly sure, stabbed him with a dagger of some sort. He threw the dagger and the wire and the stool into the river. He was in a hurry and he either forgot or couldn't find the pocket knife, and the mallet. He dragged the body along the walk toward the north wing of the building, where the moonlight was bright. He wanted to search the clothes, but he was interrupted. Whatever he was after—perhaps the jewels—never found, for at that moment, Jerry Montclair opened the door and the killer ducked for cover."

The captain brought the car to a halt by the police station. "Very cleverly thought out," he admitted, "but how do you explain all this struggle without some sort of cry that would have been heard by the people inside the clubhouse?"

"They were playing the piano and singing," the coroner reminded him. "And a brave man seldom makes an outcry. He is too busy fighting."

"I have another objection to the theory," I told Coroner Silver. "You think the killing was done in a fit of anger, yet you say the body was dragged along the walk to be searched. That would indicate premeditation."

The coroner nodded. "There are weak spots in my theory—there would be in any theory."

The captain snorted. "That's why I say 'stick to facts.'"

"You have a theory of your own," the coroner told him. "You say Markham's death was planned in advance, with the servants—"

"Gentlemen!" I protested. "It is nearly two o'clock. Don't you think we should—"

"Right," agreed the captain. "Here comes the newsboy with The Morning Eagle. We can take it to bed with us."

"Each bought a copy from the gray-haired, hunchback 'boy.' Captain McDonald opened his immediately, but Coroner Silver kept his folded and offered to drive me to my Laurel street studio. I accepted with thanks, although I, too, was curious to see what Belzer had written.

A large man lounged in the shadows of the doorway adjoining mine. My first thought was that he was the man who had sent me the threat, but when he and the coroner exchanged a friendly word, I knew he was my police guard.

Coroner Silver drove away. I climbed my own steps and shut the night on the outside of the door.

The hall light was dim, but the headlines and first few paragraphs of the newspaper story in my hands were in large, black type: "KIDNAPER IN MARKHAM MURDER PLOT!"

"Bound hand and foot, and gagged, William Strickland, portrait painter who has been a suspect in the Alfred Markham murder case, was rescued from the river yesterday a half mile above the Rio Vista club, where the popular young jeweler was found stabbed to death Tuesday night."

Interviewed exclusively by The Morning Eagle, Strickland told of being slugged and kidnapped by a large man whose face he never was given a chance to see. The attack, he said, took place an hour theory," I told Coroner Silver. "You think the killing was done in a fit of anger, yet you say the body was dragged along the walk to be searched. That would indicate premeditation."

"You have a theory of your own," the coroner told him. "You say Markham's death was planned in advance, with the servants—"

"Gentlemen!" I protested. "It is nearly two o'clock. Don't you think we should—"

"Right," agreed the captain. "Here comes the newsboy with The Morning Eagle. We can take it to bed with us."

"Each bought a copy from the gray-haired, hunchback 'boy.' Captain McDonald opened his immediately, but Coroner Silver kept his folded and offered to drive me to my Laurel street studio. I accepted with thanks, although I, too, was curious to see what Belzer had written.

A large man lounged in the shadows of the doorway adjoining mine. My first thought was that he was the man who had sent me the threat, but when he and the coroner exchanged a friendly word, I knew he was my police guard.

Coroner Silver drove away. I climbed my own steps and shut the night on the outside of the door.

The hall light was dim, but the headlines and first few paragraphs of the newspaper story in my hands were in large, black type: "KIDNAPER IN MARKHAM MURDER PLOT!"

"Bound hand and foot, and gagged, William Strickland, portrait painter who has been a suspect in the Alfred Markham murder case, was rescued from the river yesterday a half mile above the Rio Vista club, where the popular young jeweler was found stabbed to death Tuesday night."

Interviewed exclusively by The Morning Eagle, Strickland told of being slugged and kidnapped by a large man whose face he never was given a chance to see. The attack, he said, took place an hour theory," I told Coroner Silver. "You think the killing was done in a fit of anger, yet you say the body was dragged along the walk to be searched. That would indicate premeditation."

The coroner nodded. "There are weak spots in my theory—there would be in any theory."

The captain snorted. "That's why I say 'stick to facts.'"

"You have a theory of your own," the coroner told him. "You say Markham's death was planned in advance, with the servants—"

"Gentlemen!" I protested. "It is nearly two o'clock. Don't you think we should—"

Jones To Play Golf

Augusta, Ga., March 27. (AP)—Satisfied that a persistent "crick in the back" is getting better steadily, Robert Tyne Jones, Jr., said definitely today that he would be in there swinging when the Augusta masters' golf tournament starts April 4.

The Atlanta barrister and one-time "grand slam" champion of golf came down from Atlanta today, put in several hours of practice over the Augusta National course and then told newsmen he would be ready for his annual competitive appearance.

Landis Rules in Favor Player In Holdout with Dodgers

Clearwater, Fla., March 27. (AP)—In an action that may be history-making in its implications, baseball's high commissioner today established the amount of salary a club must pay a player.

Kenesaw M. Landis, the commissioner, and Lindsay Deal, young outfielder who came up to the Brooklyn Dodgers last year from Montreal, figured in the ruling.

It marked the second time in the brief but colorful big league career of the player that Landis had ruled in his favor.

The Vale Summit Boy Scouts basketball team came from behind to eke out a 39-38 win over the Eckhart district league game. M. Albright of the winners tallied ten points while Jim Loar of the losers was high for the game with eleven markers. The summary:

Eckhart (38)	G	FG	Pts.

Landis ruled in his favor and ordered the Dodgers to bring Deal to their spring training camp for inspection. The contract offered

New Books Listed As Cure (Maybe) For Spring Fever

Thrilling Adventure,
Power Politics,
Added to Shelves

A flock of new books has arrived at the Free Public Library — the kind of books which should tempt the reader even on those lazy spring afternoons and evenings which must be somewhere just around the corner.

Miss Mary G. Walsh, librarian, tells about the new books as follows:

Readers at the Library are enjoying a new and brilliant biography, "The Mad Booths of Maryland" by Stanley Kimmel, who studied the Booths records and letters and read everything published about them before he wrote this colorful account of the greatest family of the American stage.

Woolworth History
Another interesting volume is "Five and Ten—the Fabulous Life of F. W. Woolworth," written by John K. Winkler. This is as much the biography of a business as it is of a man.

"I'll Take the High Road" by Wolfgang Langewiesche is a rare story of personal adventure written by an amateur aviator.

"Seven Seas on a Shoe String—Sailing All Seas in the Idle Hour" is the excitement packed story of a round-the-world adventure in a 32 foot ketch. Dwight Long, the author, left Seattle in 1934 in the 32-foot ketch the "Idle Hour" with a one-man crew and a dog as a mascot. He circled the globe and almost exactly four years later he brought the "Idle Hour" into New York harbor.

Thrilling Adventure
"The Wandering Lake" is a description of a thrilling adventure in East Turkestan written by Sven Hedin, famed Swedish explorer and writer, author of the popular "Conquest of Tibet" and "Across the Gobi Desert," both of which are available at the library.

"There's a Crew" by Kathrene Pinkerton is a description of seven years spent in a 50-foot motor cruiser. Home was where Mr. and Mrs. Pinkerton and their small daughter Bobs chose to drop anchor. "There's a Crew" describes an extraordinary adventure in living and does so with humor and charm.

Cumberland readers are always interested in current events and John Gunther's 1940 edition of "Inside Europe" is in great demand.

Hitler's Real Policies
"The Voice of Destruction—Hitler Speaks" is by Herman Raushning, author of the important "Revolution of Nihilism." Actual conversations with Hitler are reported by the author, who gives a full and rounded picture of Hitler's real policies. "The Voice of Destruction" has already created a sensation in England where it is published under the title "Hitler Speaks."

Other recent additions include: "The Spanish Adventures of Washington Irving," a delightfully civilized book by Claude G. Bowers for six years United States Ambassador to Spain.

"In Privateer's Bag" by Robb White, an account of pioneering in the Virgin Islands.

"Since Yesterday" by Frederick Lewis Allen—a history of the 1930's in America.

"American Tel and Tel—the Story of a Great Corporation" by Horace Coon.
"Samuel J. Tilden" by Clarence Flick, an outstanding biography of a great American political leader.
"Organized Labor and Production" by Morris L. Cooke and Philip Murray, a unique book written by an expert in scientific management and a successful labor leader.

Sixty-Three Persons Are Designated for Service Medals

Charleston, W. Va., March 27 (AP)—There may be some difficulty in locating the first recipients of West Virginia's distinguished service medal so the state military board probably will send out certificates first. Sixty-three persons, six deceased, have been designated for the award under an act of the 1939 legislature.

Among those honored were Lt. Col. Andrew S. Rowan of California, formerly of Monroe county, who "carried the message to Garcia" during the Spanish-American war.

Board Secretary F. Guy Ash said the certificates of award have been printed and probably will be mailed before the medals are struck. The military board will meet tomorrow with Governor Holt to consider designs for the medal.

The inventor of Esperanto was a Polish Jew named Ludoviko Lazaro Zamenhof, who lived where Poles, Russians and Lithuanians dwelled close together and were incessantly quarreling because of language misunderstandings.

"YOUNG TOM EDISON" OPENS TODAY

GOONA-GOONA GOONS

"Road to Singapore," Paramount's new comedy with song, brings to the land of goona goona two of its most spectacular goons in the persons of Jerry Colonna, famous "Greetings, Gals" of the radio, and his film pal, Johnny Arthur. Equally "touched" by the tropic sun are the three romping stars of the picture, Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope. The new hit opens tomorrow at the Strand theater.

Theaters Today

Zurke Orchestra At Strand Today

Bob Zurke the old Tom Kat of the keys and his famous Delta Rhythm band will give four performances today only at the Strand appearing at two, four, seven and nine-fifteen p. m. Lovely Evelyn Poe the singing star and other novelties are with the Zurke attraction. On the screen is the love, laugh, mystery thriller "Double Alibi," starring Wayne Morris, William Gargan and Margaret Lindsay. It is a Universal picture.

When a picture boasts a cast starring Bing Crosby, Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope, a supporting cast which includes Charles Coburn, Judith Barrett, Anthony Quinn, and Jerry Colonna, five new hit songs, a couple hundred belles dancing in the tropics, and sundry brawls, it's a safe bet that it's going to rank as one of the best comedy musicals of the year. All that and more is in store in Paramount's "Road to Singapore," opening at the Strand theater tomorrow when it will be shown locally for the first time. In brief, this is a tale of romantic adventure in the South Seas, where Hope and Crosby, a couple of sea-loving, woman-hating fellers meet a dancer, none other than Dorothy Lamour. Certainly — they both fall in love with her, but Bing's papa and fiancée are on the trail, and it takes a lot of clowning and romancing to iron things out. Victor Schertzinger, who wrote some of the songs as well, directed.

of Menlo Park temporarily changed the youthful actor's life. To the clowning and gags that helped enliven the sets of "Babes in Arms" and the Hardy pictures, was added a new thoughtfulness.

Mickey loves motion pictures and the men and women who make them. They have brought him happiness and independence; and Thomas A. Edison, the man who made them commercially feasible, is the youthful star's number one hero.

"I've had to do a good job in this picture," said young Rooney, explaining his sudden seriousness. "I felt that as young Tom Edison I represented all motion picture people in doing reverence to one of the greatest men who ever lived. I've had to build a pattern of Mr. Edison as a boy that would be worthy of him. And, besides that, don't forget that Spencer Tracy is to play the great inventor as a man and I couldn't risk any razzing from that quarter."

Two Fine Pictures At the Embassy

Closing today at the Embassy theatre will be the double feature program "The Invisible Killer" starring Grace Bradley, Roland Drew and William Newell and Leslie Howard in the Selznick International production of "Intermezzo. A Love Story," introducing Ingrid Bergman. There will also be the second chapter of the serial "Buck Rogers."

Opening tomorrow at the Embassy theatre will be the Three Mesquiteers in "Cowboys from Texas" starring Bob Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo. The second picture will be Conrad Veidt and Vivien Leigh in "Dark Journey." On the same bill will be the last chapter of the serial "Overland with Kit Carson" with Bill Elliott in the leading role.

Disney Characters Live Inside Mammoth Whale

The interior of a mammoth whale figures importantly in several sequences of "Pinocchio." Walt Disney's second full-length feature production, which is coming as the gala attraction at the Liberty theatre.

First American Revolt Is Pictured by Film

The first armed rebellion on American soil—a historical fact virtually forgotten in modern textbooks—serves as the basis of RKO Radio's "Allegheny Uprising," starring Claire Trevor and John Wayne now showing at the Garden Theatre.

The production deals with the original uprising of the Pennsylvania colonists against the British soldiers stationed in Fort Loudon. This signal event, and subsequent dissensions between the two forces, laid the groundwork for the memorable Revolutionary war more than fifteen years later.

The Pennsylvania revolt arose when settlers were driven to desperation by traders selling weapons to the Indians under army protection only to have them used against the small settlements.

John Wayne is cast as James Smith, firebrand chieftain of the "rebels," while Claire Trevor is seen as a wild, tempestuous daughter of a tavern keeper in love with the courageous leader.

"Blind Alley," Columbia's psychological study of a desperate gunman, ends its run at the Garden today. The film features Chester Morris as the escaped killer; Ralph Bellamy as the psychiatrist who probes the gangster's mind, and Ann Dvorak as a gun moll.

Water Meters Will Be Installed at Grahamtown Soon

Plans Made at Meeting Held on Tuesday Evening

Representative of Public Service Commission Present

Frostburg, March 27.—Plans for installation of water meters at Grahamtown and vicinity were made at a public meeting Tuesday evening at the Grahamtown school, with practically all the water consumers of the community in attendance. The Public Service Commission was represented by John Dyer, field auditor, Baltimore. City Commissioner William Lemmert, Frostburg, also attended.

It was brought out at the meeting that the average daily consumption at Grahamtown from Feb. 9 to 29 was 7,100 gallons and the average daily consumption for March so far has been 10,000 gallons. With a likely increase in daily consumption as summer approaches, Mr. Dyer pointed out the rates on a flat basis would have to be increased in order to reimburse the Grahamtown-Frostburg Water Company, who purchase water from the city at 40 per 1,000 gallons, for the actual cost for water plus a reasonable profit for current expenses and to keep the lines in repair.

It was decided that the only solution to the problem of keeping the cost of water at the lowest point to the consumer was the installation of meters. Twenty consumers agreed to pay for meters at once and seventy others asked for more time in which to make arrangements. April 15 was set as the deadline for all consumers to equip their homes with meters, the average cost for each meter completely installed was estimated at $14. The county board of education, according to Mr. Dyer, has agreed to place a meter at the Grahamtown school no later than April 15 will not be supplied with water.

If the consumption of water shows no decrease after meters are installed, a systematic search for leaks in the water lines will be started. According to Mr. Dyer, the whole problem of water supply and rates for Grahamtown consumers should be on a permanent and satisfactory basis within three months.

Watch Is Presented To Former Fire Chief

The twenty years of service rendered as chief of the Frostburg Fire Department by Bernard Hughes was given grateful recognition last evening when the members, assembled at Firemen's hall to celebrate the sixty-second anniversary of the department, presented Mr. Hughes with a beautiful gold watch and chain.

The presentation address was made by Mayor Olen Gunneth who, calling attention to the fact that Mr. Hughes has been a member of the department for forty years, stated that he was an ardent worker for the department before he became chief and has been working just as enthusiastically since he retired last January in favor of Cyril Nickel. Mr. Hughes' heart and soul is in the department, the mayor said, and his devotion has won him the esteem of the entire community.

In accepting the gift Mr. Hughes spoke under noticeable emotional strain in voicing his gratitude to the members. He said the twenty years of service as chief and the forty years as a member of the department meant more to him than he was able to adequately express. He congratulated the members on their selection of Cyril Nickel as his successor, stating that the new chief was the right man in the right place.

Mr. Hughes was elected president of the department when he retired. Other speakers were Charles Dillon, past president; Karl Nickel, secretary; Elmer S. Kight, treasurer of the Maryland State Firemen's Association; C. A. Holben, city tax collector, and City Commissioners Michael J. Byrnes, Conrad Kroll and Walter Powell.

Mr. Kight, who was elected treasurer of the State body last July, stated that he would be a candidate for reelection at the State Convention to be held in Lonaconing this coming summer. The program included a collation of good things to eat and drink, prepared by a committee consisting of Jesse Jacobs, William Wilderman, Arch Baker, Cyril Nickel and James McGuire.

The affair was attended by practically all the active members of the department, the oldest member present being Theophilus Sperry who joined fifty-three years ago. Thomas S. Preston, the only living charter member, was ill at his home and unable to attend. Mr. Preston had been blind for several years, but maintains as active an interest in the department as his physical condition will permit.

Frostburg Personals

Mrs. Bernice Dudley, Eckhart, is a patient at the Miners' hospital. Miss Anna Engle returned to Baltimore Monday after spending the Easter holidays with her uncle, Postmaster E. J. Donahoe and aunts, the Misses Elizabeth and Theresa Donahoe, East Main street. William Mathias, a student at Manhattan College, New York, returned to New York Monday after.

HONORED BY MEMBERS OF FIRE DEPARTMENT

Bernard Hughes

Bernard Hughes, who retired last January after being a member of the Frostburg Fire Department for forty years and serving twenty years as chief was honored Tuesday evening by members of the department. He was presented a gold watch and chain at the Sixty-second anniversary celebration of the department.

Meyersdale Man Injured at Mine

Right Hand of Earl George Badly Crushed by Hoisting Machine

Grantsville, March 27.—Earl George's right hand was badly crushed this morning when it was caught in an electric hoisting machine at the Meyers Coal Company mines. The accident occurred shortly after he reported for work about 7 o'clock. George, who was working at the hoister, noticed the clutch was slipping and as he reached across the gearing to adjust it, the cuff of his glove caught in the gears and his hand was drawn into the machine.

He was brought to the office of a local physician who rendered first aid and rushed him to the Memorial hospital at Cumberland. Physicians hoped to be able to save his hand, but some of the fingers were badly mangled and they were unable to say at this time whether or not it would be necessary to amputate any of them.

George, who is about twenty-seven years of age, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melchor George, near here.

Moorefield High School Paper Is Given High Rating

"The Beacon" Is Awarded the Degree of Select Newspaper

Moorefield, Mar. 27.—"The Beacon," a newspaper published by the students of the journalism class in Moorefield high school, was awarded the degree of "select newspaper" in the eighteenth annual journalistic competition of the West Virginia University, School of Journalism.

This degree signifies that the paper received between 900 and 925 points rating from a possible 1000 points of perfection. This "select" rating is one rank higher than the "superior" group in which the local paper was placed in 1939. The highest rating is that "first honors" and was awarded to eleven high school editions in the state. Seventeen others ranked with "The Beacon" for the "select" group.

The staff of the Moorefield school publication is Wallen Bean, editor; Andrew McCormick, managing editor; Nola Hott and Mary Wilson, feature editors; Billy Grover and Harlan Leatherman, sports editors; Janet Godlove, exchange editors; Louise Vetter, society editor; Olene Evans, alumni editor; Carlton Saville, business manager; Weldon Neff, joke editor; Jean Leatherman and Flossie Zirk, advertising assistants; George Hoke, circulation manager.

Because of the excellence of "The Beacon" in its make-up, Miss Mary Frances Guthrie, faculty advisor of the editorial staff of the paper has been invited to teach in a journalistic training school at the University sometime in June. Marion H. Deahl is business advisor for the school paper.

Dolly Speaks Here

Richard Dolly, star football player at West Virginia University spoke to Moorefield high school students Tuesday afternoon as a representative of the University "Mountaineer Week Team." Dolly is captain of the thirteenth annual tour which is being launched by sixteen outstanding undergraduate speakers from the university who will contact students in 127 high schools throughout the state this week.

Dolly, a native of Onego, Pendleton county, starred in football and wrestling at the university. He also is an outstanding student. He is a member of the student council, both in the university and the college of Agriculture; president of the Senior class; a member of the Interfraternity council, member of Phi Kappa Sigma, Phi Beta Kappa, and the Mountain—University social organization.

Work Will Start April 1 on $5,000 Playground WPA Project at Barton

Barton, Mar. 27.—A $5,000 playground improvement project for Barton, which was signed early last summer, will get underway April 1, it was announced here today by Henry Tarring, Jr., WPA resident engineer. Mr. Tarring with Thomas McKernan, assistant WPA engineer spent this morning at the local school making estimates and preparing other data for the project. The number of men to be employed was not announced.

The project includes the building of a 250 foot concrete curb at the Barton high school, upon which will be placed a five foot high steel chain fence. On the sidewalk in front of the school, which is approximately three and a half feet from the street level, a three inch pipe railing will be set in concrete. A hazardous condition, according to local school officials, thus will be eliminated with the erection of the fence and railing.

The playground, which is on four sides of the school building, will be dug out and leveled. On top of this will be placed shale and oil and then rolled to seal the school yard completely. At present, the playground is of dirt and has not been usable for three-fourths of the school year.

By using the road adjacent to the school, which will be closed at certain times of the day by the mayor and city commissioners, there will be safer and cleaner space for outdoor activities, local school authorities stated.

Club Organized

As an outgrowth of the night school classes, sponsored by the Allegheny county board of education, under the direction of H. C. Hames, supervisor of industrial education, a consumer club has been organized by the members of the Consumer Economics class, who have been meeting at the Barton high school two nights each week for the past six months. William P. Cooper has been the instructor.

The aim of the new organization is to study organized consumer problems in a conservative manner, so as to "make their dollars have more cents."

The club has visited a number of factories in the past several days on their own time, and Saturday, will visit the Celanese Corporation of America.

Providing final arrangements can be made, the president stated, the club will be guests of the Department of Agriculture and the Bureau of Standards, May 6, 7, and 8.

Officers of the club are: President, Edwin Clark; secretary, Winifred Willard, treasurer, Mary Howell.

Recently Mr. Price was accepted as a member of Phi Eta Sigma, a national honorary scholastic fraternity. This week he will be initiated also into Alpha Chi Sigma, national honorary chemical fraternity.

Vance Goldsborough has returned to his home from Miners' hospital, Frostburg.

WORLD'S TONIC COMES OUT WITH FLYING COLORS

Five-Year Source of Complaints Attacked After Many Inferior Methods Fail

World's Tonic is a paying method in getting results for many simply because they never took time to give their troubles the proper thought and benefit of a little common sense reasoning. That's why your doctor asks a lot of questions. He wants to know what you are made of. If you have a cold from a draft, he wants to shut the window so you won't catch another one while he is taking care of this one. Mr. J. S. Bost, 21 Gallatin St., Uniontown, Pa., told the World's Tonic man a story recently that just about hits the nail on the head. Perhaps it will give you an idea of the constant relief continued use of World's Tonic has given to unfortunate sufferers. Why many of them say, "Stupendous, amazing, I feel like a new person," and so on.

"For over five years constipation has had me up and down with the down getting stronger every day. Sometimes I'd get a little relief and forget about it but only for a short time and was back on the sick list. This ailment finally weakened my kidneys and liver and brought on many discomforts and awful pains. These pains have been called a dozen names for all I know. When you're all sore and stiff and aching you'd take time to sort out these pains and give them fancy names like you would a crop of apples on the farm. I tried all kinds of things but always wound up where I started. But this World's Tonic did one thing thorough and the other ailments just seemed to drop out of sight.

In a couple of weeks I was getting regular easy bowel movements two or sometimes three times a day. That seemed to be just what I needed because I'm not bothered a bit by any of those pains, aches, and other troubles that kept pecking at me for five years. The way World's Tonic went right to the cause of my trouble and relieved my constipation makes me think of the man on the farm next to mine. Every time it rained the roof leaked and they'd put pans and buckets all over the floor to catch the rain. His wife raised holy Ned with him but he used to argue that he couldn't fix the leak when it was raining and when it wasn't raining there wasn't any leak to fix. That's just about my fit. Those things I was taking were just like those buckets catching the leaks, but World's Tonic climbed right up on the roof and fixed that leak. I'm not telling this story to be funny like a politician but because it's just about a perfect way to describe my feelings and fits me to a T."

World's Tonic contains roots, barks, herbs and leaves brought here from many widely separated parts of the old world, because, although they grow in the United States, many such ingredients lack the medicinal values and are entirely different in content, action and result from those growing in old world climates. Thus we find in World's Tonic medicines made by Nature before science, yet taking their place with modern medicinal science of the present.

Get World's Tonic at Ford, Keech, Lichtenstein, Peoples, Truitt, and Cumberland Drug and all other leading Drug Stores. (E 103) —Advertisement

County May Hold Up Dam Money On Labor Issue

Put Allegany Men To Work, Green Warns After Conference

"Unless Allegany county labor is put to work on the Savage River dam project there will be no more Allegany county money paid out for the dam," declared Simon W. Green, president of the board of county commissioners, following a sizzling meeting in the office of Mayor Harry Irvine yesterday.

The president of the board reared back and delivered his ultimatum on the subject following a discussion with Mayor Irvine, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Fred C. Wiseman, mayor of Luke, and Charles Z. Heskett, Cumberland city attorney.

Three main points of interest were brought out at yesterday's conference. They were:

Three Points Brought Out

1—Green's threat to clamp down on the purse strings unless something was done for Allegany county labor.

2—Mayor Wiseman's offer to transport Cumberland workers to Luke to do a street job now stymied due to the fact that all labor in that area is employed on the dam.

3—The agreement of the officials to send a letter to Francis H. Dryden, WPA administrator, inquiring what can be done about the Luke offer.

"Not Given a Chance"

Green declared last night that he thought workers should be furnished transportation to and from the dam, but added that, at any rate, they ought to be given the opportunity to work on it and furnish their own transportation if they wished.

Green attacked the WPA policy of limiting the jobs to workers within a twenty-mile radius of the project, termed it downright unfair and argued that workers in a large part of the county "aren't even given a chance."

Mayor Harry Irvine sat back yesterday and let Commissioner Green carry the ball. But the mayor has been and is a kicker against the WPA method of handing out jobs on the dam project.

400 Cumberlanders Eligible

There are some 400 Cumberland men eligible to work on the project, the mayor said yesterday, and the City of Cumberland had counted on jobs on the dam.

Perhaps the most single interesting point brought out in yesterday's meeting was the fact that the Town of Luke is ready to go ahead on an $18,000 WPA street job but is stymied because there are no men the town can employ. All labor available in the Luke section is now employed on the dam.

Mayor Wiseman, of Luke, declared that the Town of Luke was ready to transport Cumberland workers to and from work if they could be obtained for the street job.

Want Jobs Somewhere

Asked if a setup of this sort wouldn't be somewhat unusual, Mayor Irvine replied blandly, "I don't see why. If we can get some men jobs, I'm all for it regardless of where it is. During the World War they had a special train which picked up men all through the county for a big project at Terra Alta."

Commissioner Green also took issue with a statement recently made by WPA officials that it has never been WPA's policy to furnish transportation to workers. He said he had information that WPA had transported workers from Baltimore to Annapolis and referred to a court case growing out of it with regard to the type of licenses for the trucks used in the hauling.

Use Allegany Men First

"If I have anything to do with it, no workers from outside Allegany county will be put to work on the dam until all available Allegany county men are taken care of," Green asserted.

He estimated that about $460,000 remained to be paid out of the proceeds of the million-dollar bond issue the county floated for the dam.

The group that conferred yesterday in Mayor Irvine's office agreed to send a letter to Francis H. Dryden, state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, inquiring what he wanted to do about Mayor Wiseman's proposition.

Text of Letter

"As you know from correspondence between your office and the Mayor of Cumberland and also your office and the Mayor of Luke and no doubt from reports of conferences held between your representatives and the County Commissioners of Allegany County, there is confusion with relation to Public Works projects growing out of dislocation of labor in Allegany County," the letter said.

"On February 7, the Street Commissioners of Luke directed a letter to the Mayor of Cumberland, asking if arrangements could be made to supply the labor from Cumberland in connection with a WPA project at Luke, and supplementing that letter, the Mayor of Luke offered to provide, at the expense of that town, transportation from Cumberland to Luke and return, in order to take care of men. In addition to this project, which is an immediate one at Luke, the town of Luke has also another project which has been approved which could be got-

Smarlest Dog In County Winds Clock

Retired Railroader Has Dog Show Tricks For News Reporter

This is a story about the smartest dog in Allegany county, according to the citizenry of Eckhart.

His name is "Teddy," but "Webster" would have been more appropriate since he probably has the biggest vocabulary of any dog around.

When owners start talking about their smart dogs or parents start talking about their smart babies, a "you've got to show me" gleam generally flickers in the eyes of a cautious person. For smart dogs and smart babies are notorious for not living up to the advance notices once the company comes and the performance begins.

Neighbors Convinced

But if William F. Michaels casually told his Eckhart neighbors today that his fox terrier, "Teddy," was learning to play the piano, the neighbors would slyly shake their heads and probably predict a great concert career for the three-year-old pooch.

Mr. Michaels, who bought "Teddy" three years ago from a man in Lonaconing for $2.50, is a retired railroad man. For the past three years he has conducted a watch repair business and brought up "Teddy." Mr. Michaels is also a canary fancier. He owns fifteen. And they all sing.

Lots of people hear about Teddy and come to the Michaels' home to see for themselves. That's what a News reporter did.

Ordinary Appearance

Walking into the parlor, Mr. Michaels will sit down in his easy chair. Then he will whistle for his dog. When "Teddy" makes his first appearance a spectator must admit there's nothing so unusual about him or "remarkable." He looks very much like any little fox terrier with snappy black eyes.

"Teddy," Mr. Michaels will say, "My feet are tired. Suppose you go up to my bedroom and fetch down my slippers."

Teddy is on his way upstairs almost before the words are out of his master's mouth. And a few split seconds later he dumps a slipper at Mr. Michaels' feet. Then he makes a second whirlwind trip and brings back the second slipper.

Brings Cigar

After putting on his slippers (which Mr. Michaels does by himself) he will remark, "Teddy, I think I'll have a smoke. Suppose you get me a cigar."

The dutiful dog disappears into Mr. Michaels' workshop to emerge a second later with a cigar which he gives to his master.

About this time the paper boy will show up at the gate with the evening paper. Like the newsboy in the "Blondie" movies, Newsboy Wright waits until Teddy arrives at the gate to take the paper.

Delivers Paper to Master Only

Then Teddy runs the gauntlet through members of the Michaels family with the paper clutched tightly in his mouth. If, perchance, Mrs. Michaels makes a grab for the paper, Teddy makes warning noises in his throat. That paper is for Mr. Michaels, and it is delivered to Mr. Michaels, intact.

"Just a little thing I taught him to do," Mr. Michaels remarks with a wink. "I don't like to read a paper that is all torn up." At which Mrs. Michaels sniffs, "You make more fuss over that dog."

(Note to husbands whose wives tear up their papers before they get a chance to see them: Teddy is not for sale under any circumstances.)

Winds the Clock

Winding the clock is the next chore performed by this hard-working dog. Instructed to do so, Teddy marches to the clock fastened on the wall and obediently pulls the clock weights.

From downstairs, Mrs. Michaels calls, "Teddy, I've got to feed the chickens. Get the keys to the hen-house."

Teddy forthwith bounds into Michaels' lap and starts nosing in his sweater pockets.

"Is this what you want?" inquires Mr. Michaels handing the dog a jackknife. Teddy promptly drops it, waits motionless. Then Mr. Michaels produces the keys and

DOG WITH HIGH I-Q—It's a delicate subject, but William F. Michaels has reason to believe that he owns the smartest dog in Allegany county. The dog, a fox terrier called "Teddy," waits on his master hand and foot, seems to know the meaning of many words. Upper left, "Teddy" brings his master his slipper (he makes two trips); upper right, winding the clock. Below, "Teddy" obediently brings Mr. Michaels the newspaper which the dog refuses to deliver up to any other member of the family.

Farm Dispute Up in Court

Man Gets Injunction To Protect Grain

A Rawlins farmer today had gone into court to prevent a neighbor from breaking into his granary and throwing the grain out.

He was Charles S. Hansel, who with his wife, Mrs. Ella M. Hansel, asked Circuit court yesterday for an injunction to prevent William B. Collins from carrying out an alleged threat to forcibly enter the granary.

The bill of complaint, docketed by Attorney Thomas Lohr Richards, said that Collins recently told Hansel that if he did not remove his possessions from the granary by today, he would "immediately break the lock on the granary door, break down the door and throw out the possessions."

Associate Judge William A. Huster signed a temporary restraining order against Collins from bothering the granary or any other property belonging to Hansel and ordering him to show cause by April 15 why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

Hansel's suit said that he was the owner of a farm near Rawlins, while Collins occupied the farm adjoining the west.

The Hansel property, according to the bill, includes a strip of land on the west side of Mill Run, on which are a dwelling house, a granary, sheds and garages. Hansel has had "undisputed possession" of this property for "many years," the suit stated.

Then, citing the threat Collins allegedly made, the plaintiff asserted he has "good reason to fear" that Collins will carry out the threat. To avert this "continuing menace" and prevent "irreparable damage" he asked the restraining order.

Man Hurts Back

George Miller, 35, of RFD 2, Cumberland, suffered an injured back yesterday afternoon when he fell backwards against the running board of an automobile while working on another machine. He was able to leave Allegany hospital after being treated.

Gephart P.-T.A. Marks Birthday

Group Will Celebrate 15th Year Tonight

The Gephart Parent-Teacher Association will celebrate its fifteenth birthday tonight in the school auditorium, President W. E. Landefeld announced yesterday.

Arrangements have been made to have the past presidents of the association give brief talks on some interesting incidents that occurred during their term of office. Among those to speak will be George Barnard, the first to hold the post; Charles Shaw, W. W. Mortzfeldt, Clarence Valentine, Karl G. Kolb and Leroy Snyder.

Several novelty musical numbers will be given by the "Kitchen Band," a group of ladies equipped with kitchen utensils for instruments. Refreshments will be served following the entertainment.

Firemen Kept Busy For Second Straight Day; Eight Fires Checked

Eight fires, including the burning of a pigeon loft, kept firemen of Cumberland's four companies on the jump yesterday afternoon.

West Side firemen were called at 2:25 to the rear of 20 Luteman highway, and at 12:35 to the 800-foot Hill Top drive to extinguish grass fires.

A blue fire was put out by South End firemen at 2:10 at the home of W. E. Long, 57 Offutt street. Earlier, they were summoned at 12:45 to the home of Mrs. Margaret Keller, 319 Broadway, when a pigeon loft caught on fire. One bird was rescued and the others flew away.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Miller, of RFD 5, Cumberland, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Opening Dinner In Chest Drive Slated Tuesday

Nearly 500 To Attend Preliminary Meeting; Speakers Group Active

The opening dinner-meeting of the Cumberland Community Chest campaign will be held Tuesday at 6 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to William A. Gunter, general chairman.

The dinner will be attended by an army of workers which will total nearly 500. This is one of the largest and most compactly and systematically formed groups ever organized in Cumberland for a campaign of this kind, Mr. Gunter said, and the solicitation will be more complete, with every able citizen in the city being interviewed and given an opportunity to subscribe.

The campaign does not start officially until two days after the opening dinner. The opening meeting is for the purpose of instruction and to outline all phases of the campaign, so that many details new to many of the volunteers can be explained.

Goal Is $56,373

The organization of the vast body of men and women enlisted to raise the $56,373 needed to maintain the ten Chest agencies for another year, has been progressing rapidly. Division and section leaders, team captains, regimental leaders and numerous team workers already enlisted bring the total to nearly 400. However, about 100 more persons will be enrolled in the campaign by the end of the week, to complete all teams.

Publicity and education committees have been actively engaged and the Speakers Bureau, headed by Paul Fletcher, has, according to Mr. Gunter, done a splendid piece of work. Much to the surprise and interest of everyone, the speakers have filled a total of thirty-one engagements in the city and have more to complete.

In many business houses, churches and schools a film, entitled "The Sun Shines Through," showing the work of Chest agencies has been shown. Groups interested in viewing this sound film, should call the Chest campaign office or Mr. Fletcher.

Many View Film

Among the places where speakers have been, or the film has been viewed are Shriver Company, Eller Chevrolet, Allegany hospital, German Brewing Company, Armour and Company, State Restaurant, Porter's Restaurant, Cumberland Clook & Suit Company, C. & A. Gas Company, warehouses, General Textile Mills, Spoor's Garage, Woolworth Company, Maryland theater, Liberty Trust Company, Cumberland Police Department, Rialto Quick Lunch, Lazarus, Inc., E. V. Coyle Bros., Sears Roebuck and Company, Maurice's Department store, Monumental Life, Inc., Rosenbaum Brothers, Thompson Buick Corporation, Peoples Life, Inc., Great American Tea Company, Allegany County Court House, St. Mark's Reformed church, First Presbyterian church.

Several other business houses, churches, schools and organizations have applied for speakers and the film, and will be given assignments up to and including the dates of the campaign.

Deaths

Mrs. Daniel W. Doub

Funeral services for Mrs. Katherine Memmelle Doub, 63, wife of Daniel W. Doub, who died Tuesday at her home in Hagerstown, were conducted yesterday. Burial was in Beaver Creek cemetery, Hagerstown.

Mrs. Doub came to Cumberland after she graduated from the Training School of Nurses of the Germantown hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. Here she became assistant superintendent of the Western Maryland hospital, which was located on Baltimore avenue.

She left Cumberland in 1912 and went to Hagerstown to become the first public nurse of that city and Washington county. A year later she resigned as public health nurse to marry.

Surviving, besides her husband, are three children by a previous marriage.

Mr. Hagerstown attorney, is a brother of former Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr., of Cumberland.

Elwood M. Albright

Elwood M. Albright, of Ridgeley, died Monday at Moundsville, W. Va. he was 20.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mildred Albright, of Cumberland; three brothers, Leonard and Garford Albright, of Baltimore, and Carlton Albright, of Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. Earl Northcraft and Miss Sylvia Mae Albright, also of Cumberland; and his grand mother, Mrs. E. P. Lease, with whom he resided.

Gallen last night reported that he had had no knowledge of the circumstances connected with the case. He was forty miles from Cumberland when the arrest occurred, he said.

The mix-up in names occurred when court attaches, who saw Gallen in court, reported he had testified.

Mrs. Aura E. Little

Last rites for Mrs. Aura Elizabeth Little, 77, widow of Albert C. Little, who died Saturday night at her home in Elkins, W. Va., were held yesterday in Elkins. Burial was in Bedford, Pa.

A son, Charles Little, of Cumberland, is among the survivors.

Hurt in Fall

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin Weighs Offer of Delaware Health Post

An offer to become executive secretary of the State Board of Health of the State of Delaware today had been extended to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin, who was in Wilmington Tuesday to confer with Delaware officials, admitted yesterday he was considering the offer but had not as yet made up his mind to accept it.

Widely Known

Dr. Franklin, widely known by health department officials through his work in this section during the last eleven years, will be given ample time by Delaware officials to "make up his mind."

The position offered to Dr. Franklin is similar in scope to the one held by Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the Maryland Department of Health.

Dr. Franklin said he had informed Dr. Riley of the Delaware offer. Dr. Riley urged him not to leave Maryland, he said.

Mayor Wants Him To Stay

Mayor Harry Irvine, informed of the offer to Dr. Franklin, was hopeful that the county and city health officer would see fit to remain here.

Mayor Irvine, long sold on the program of Dr. Franklin and his associates, recently declared in a radio address that "Cumberland's health department is so well organized and efficiently operated that it ranks as the number one health department in the state and has a higher merit rating than even the City of Baltimore."

Dr. Franklin became city and county health officer eleven years ago. He initiated many reforms and changes.

In 1936, Dr. Allan W. Freeman, dean of the school of hygiene and public health of Johns Hopkins university, made a thorough survey of the city and county health situation.

Many Changes Made

Dr. Freeman suggested a number of changes in organization and methods. Under Dr. Franklin, every one of these suggestions were carried out to the last detail.

Dr. Franklin laughed yesterday when questioned concerning his health reforms which have cut down disease to a whisper compared to a few years ago.

"Don't forget I had twenty-one people working with me," he said.

Would Have Big Job

In the event Dr. Franklin accepts the position in Delaware, he would have charge of a large organization looking after the health of some 250,000 people in the state. His headquarters would be in Wilmington, a city of approximately 100,000 population.

News of the offer to Dr. Franklin follows the recent resignation of Dr. Walter Johnson, Dr. Franklin's assistant, who is scheduled to leave Saturday for Caroline county, Easton Shore, where he will become county health officer.

Parole Pleas Turned Down

Four from Here Denied Liberty; Records Cited

Annapolis, March 27 (AP)—Catherine Spencer and Goldie V. Grapes, each serving a year for contributing to the delinquency of the Spencer woman's minor son, were denied parole today by Herman M. Moser, parole director.

The court records showed the two women prisoners showed they had been troublesome to Cumberland police, and had been involved in mixed parties for whites and negroes. They were convicted for leaving the small boy alone for long periods.

Edward Bishop, convicted in Allegany county for contributing to the delinquency of his twelve-year-old daughter, was also denied release. He had a previous record.

Harvey Gomer, Borden Yard, convicted in a filling station robbery, was denied parole on his previous bad record.

Only two prisoners out of fifty applicants were recommended for release after hearings today.

Correction

It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Cumberland News that John A. Gallen, of 613 Patterson avenue, testified Tuesday in Trial Magistrates court in behalf of an alleged drunken and reckless driver who was acquitted on both charges.

It was George Long, of North Mechanic street, an employee of the Southern hotel, who testified that the driver had had one bottle of beer at his home before his arrest, and not Gallen. Gallen was present at the trial only because he posted bond for the driver.

Gallen last night reported that he had had no knowledge of the circumstances connected with the case. He was forty miles from Cumberland when the arrest occurred, he said.

The mix-up in names occurred when court attaches, who saw Gallen in court, reported he had testified.

To See Movies

A motion picture entitled "Men and Trees" will be featured today at 7:30 p. m. at the regular meeting of Townsend Club No. 2 in the Odd Fellows building on South Mechanic street.

Montgomery Ward To Build Here In Near Future

To Raze Smith Building Within Sixty Days, Realtor Announces

Work will begin within sixty days on razing the Smith building, Baltimore and George streets, preparatory to starting the construction of a four-story business building for Montgomery Ward and Company, according to word received yesterday by Robert W. Young, real estate agent, from Chicago executives of the mail order company.

According to the word received by Young, who handled the realty transactions, Montgomery Ward and Company plans to build an up-to-date business building with four floors plus mezzanine and a business basement.

Although it was not definitely announced yesterday, it is believed the company plans to erect a one or two-story building on the site across the alley from the store, which was recently acquired by Montgomery Ward.

According to tentative plans, this space will eventually be used to construct a building for a car servicing station to take care of the company's tire and automobile accessory business.

Askin Chain Pays $60,000 For Building Here

The Jay and Ess Company, owners of the Askin Clothing store chain, today had purchased the building which its Cumberland branch occupies at 149 Baltimore street.

The building was sold to the firm by the First National Bank for $60,000, according to a deed filed for record at the courthouse yesterday.

Filed with the deed was a $50,000 purchase money mortgage, representing the balance due on the purchase price.

The mortgage, which calls for payment of the principal in five years, was signed for the Jay and Ess Company by Joseph S. Askin, president, and Simon Askin, secretary.

Fort Hill Play Cast Announced

Seniors To Present Comedy April 12

Seventeen Fort Hill students today had been named in the cast for the senior class production of the celebrated comedy, "You Can't Take It With You," by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman.

The three-act play, which enjoyed a long and successful run on Broadway, where it was produced by Sam H. Harris, will be presented at the Fort Hill auditorium April 12. Miss Helen Smith and Miss Nellie S. Wilson, co-directors, yesterday announced the cast as follows:

Daughter of Ridgeley Pioneer Dies at 95; Town Named for Father

Mrs. Mary Ridgeley Montgomery, daughter of the late Charles Ridgeley, for whom Ridgeley, W. Va., was named, died yesterday afternoon at her home in Wheeling, W. Va., from the infirmities of old age. She was 95.

Born near Cresaptown, she married George Montgomery, a Union Army officer, in Cumberland after the Civil War. Her husband died about thirty years ago.

Surviving are a son, Charles Montgomery, of Wheeling; four daughters, Mrs. Edgar Harrison, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Leona Hicks, of Ohio; Misses Florence and Eva Montgomery, at home; a half-brother, William Ridgeley, of Ridgeley; and five half-sisters, Mrs. Charles Wolfe, Mrs. Edgar Seem, Mrs. William Gardner, Mrs. J. C. Wolford and Miss Lillie Ridgeley, all of Cumberland.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in Wheeling.

Complaints Cause Arrest Of 32-Year-Old Man

A 32-year-old Avirett avenue man was arrested last night in downtown Cumberland for indecent exposure.

Charles Cunningham, formerly of Mason and Dixon, Pa., was apprehended on a technical charge of "disturbing the public peace." Officers H. P. Kennard, Carl J. Stouffer, and W. P. Crabtree made the arrest.

Police said Cunningham was picked up after they received complaints. Four Charles street girls, from 13 to 20 years old, were listed at headquarters as witnesses against the man.

Cunningham was being held in jail last night under $100 bond. He is scheduled to be given a hearing today in Police court.

Dr. Joseph P.

Put Allegany Men To Work, Green Warns After Conference

"Unless Allegany county labor is put to work on the Savage River dam project there will be no more Allegany county money paid out for the dam," declared Simon W. Green, president of the board of county commissioners, following a sizzling meeting in the office of Mayor Harry Irvine yesterday.

The president of the board reared back and delivered his ultimatum on the subject following a discussion with Mayor Irvine, State Senator Robert B. Kimble, Fred C. Wiseman, mayor of Luke, and Charles Z. Heskett, Cumberland city attorney.

Three main points of interest were brought out at yesterday's conference. They were:

Three Points Brought Out

1—Green's threat to clamp down on the purse strings unless something was done for Allegany county labor.

2—Mayor Wiseman's offer to transport Cumberland workers to Luke to do a street job now stymied due to the fact that all labor in that area is employed on the dam.

3—The agreement of the officials to send a letter to Francis H. Dryden, WPA administrator, inquiring what can be done about the Luke offer.

"Not Given a Chance"

Green declared last night that he thought workers should be furnished transportation to and from the dam, but added that, at any rate, they ought to be given the opportunity to work on it and furnish their own transportation if they wished.

Green attacked the WPA policy of limiting the jobs to workers within a twenty-mile radius of the project, termed it downright unfair and argued that workers in a large part of the county "aren't even given a chance."

Mayor Harry Irvine sat back yesterday and let Commissioner Green carry the ball. But the mayor has been and is a kicker against the WPA method of handing out jobs on the dam project.

400 Cumberlanders Eligible

There are some 400 Cumberland men eligible to work on the project, the mayor said yesterday, and the City of Cumberland had counted on jobs on the dam.

Perhaps the most single interesting point brought out in yesterday's meeting was the fact that the Town of Luke is ready to go ahead on an $18,000 WPA street job but is stymied because there are no men the town can employ. All labor available in the Luke section is now employed on the dam.

Mayor Wiseman of Luke, declared that the Town of Luke was ready to transport Cumberland workers to and from work if they could be obtained for the street job.

Want Jobs Somewhere

Asked if a setup of this sort wouldn't be somewhat unusual, Mayor Irvine replied blandly, "I don't see why. If we can get some men jobs, I'm all for it regardless of where it is. During the World War they had a special train which picked up men all through the county for a big project at Terra Alta."

Commissioner Green also took issue with a statement recently made by WPA officials that it has never been WPA's policy to furnish transportation to workers. He said he had information that WPA had transported workers from Baltimore to Annapolis and referred to a court case growing out of it with regard to the type of licenses for the trucks used in the hauling.

Use Allegany Men First

"If I have anything to do with it, no workers from outside Allegany county will be put to work on the dam until all available Allegany county men are taken care of," Green asserted.

He estimated that about $480,000 remained to be paid out of the proceeds of the million-dollar bond issue the county floated for the dam.

The group that conferred yesterday in Mayor Irvine's office agreed to send a letter to Francis H. Dryden, state administrator of the Works Progress Administration, inquiring what he wanted to do about Mayor Wiseman's proposition.

Text of Letter

"As you know from correspondence between your office and the Mayor of Cumberland and also your office and the Mayor of Luke and no doubt from reports of conferences held between your representatives and the County Commissioners of Allegany County, there is confusion with relation to Public Works projects growing out of dislocation of labor in Allegany County," the letter said.

"On February 7, the Street Commissioner of Luke directed a letter to the Mayor of Cumberland, asking if arrangements could be made to supply the labor from Cumberland in connection with a WPA project at Luke, and supplementing that letter, the Mayor of Luke offered to provide, at the expense of that town, transportation from Cumberland to Luke and return, in order to take care of men. In addition to the project, which is an immediate one at Luke, the town of Luke has also another project which has been approved which could be got-

Smarlest Dog In County Winds Clock

Retired Railroader Has Dog Show Tricks For News Reporter

This is a story about the smartest dog in Allegany county, according to the citizenry of Eckhart.

His name is "Teddy," but "Webster" would have been more appropriate since he probably has the biggest vocabulary of any dog around.

When owners start talking about their smart dogs or parents start talking about their smart babies, a "you've got to show me" gleam generally flickers in the eyes of a cautious person. For smart dogs and smart babies are notorious for not living up to the advance notices once the company comes and the performance begins.

Neighbors Convinced

But if William F. Michaels casually told his Eckhart neighbors today that his fox terrier, "Teddy," was learning to play the piano, the neighbors would sagely shake their heads and probably predict a great career for the three-year-old pooch.

Mr. Michaels, who bought "Teddy" three years ago from a man in Lonaconing for $250, is a retired railroad man. For the past three years he has conducted a watch repair business and brought up "Teddy," Mr. Michaels is also a canary fancier. He owns fifteen. And they all sing.

Lots of people hear about Teddy and come to the Michaels' home to see for themselves. That's what a News reporter did.

Ordinary Appearance

Walking into the parlor, Mr. Michaels will sit down in his easy chair. Then he will whistle for the dog. When "Teddy" makes his first appearance a spectator must admit there's nothing so unusual about him or "remarkable." He looks very much like any little fox terrier with snappy black eyes.

"Teddy," Mr. Michaels will say, "My feet are tired. Suppose you go up to my bedroom and fetch down my slippers."

Teddy is on his way upstairs almost before the words are out of his master's mouth. And a few split seconds later he dumps a slipper at Mr. Michaels' feet. Then he makes a second whirlwind trip and brings back the second slipper.

Brings Cigar

After putting on his slippers (which Mr. Michaels does by himself) he will remark, "Teddy, I think I'll have a smoke. Suppose you get me a cigar."

The dutiful dog disappears into Mr. Michaels' workshop to emerge a second later with a cigar which he gives to his master.

About this time the paper boy will show up at the gate with the evening paper. Like the newsboy in the "Blondie" movies, Newsboy Wright waits until Teddy arrives at the gate to take the paper.

Delivers Paper to Master Only

Then Teddy runs the gamut through members of the Michaels family with the paper clutched tightly in his mouth. If, perchance, Mrs. Michaels makes a grab for the paper, Teddy makes warning noises in his throat. That paper is for Mr. Michaels and it is delivered to Mr. Michaels, intact.

"Just a little thing I taught him to do," Mr. Michaels remarks with a wink. "I don't like to read a paper that is all torn up." At which Mrs. Michaels sniffs, "You make more fuss over that dog."

(Note to husbands whose wives tear up their papers before they get a chance to see them: Teddy is not for sale under any circumstances.)

Winds the Clock

Winding the clock is the next chore performed by this hard-working dog. Instructed to do so, Teddy marches to the clock fastened on the wall and obediently pulls the clock weights.

From downstairs, Mrs. Michaels calls, "Teddy, I've got to feed the chickens. Get the keys to the henhouse."

Teddy forthwith bounds into Michaels' lap and starts nosing in his sweater pockets.

"Is this what you want?" inquires Mr. Michaels handing the dog a jackknife. Teddy promptly drops it, waits motionless. Then Mr. Michaels produces the keys and

Farm Dispute Up in Court

Man Gets Injunction To Protect Grain

A Rawlins farmer today had gone into court to prevent a neighbor from breaking into his granary and throwing the grain out.

He was Charles S. Hansel, who with his wife, Mrs. Ella M. Hansel, asked Circuit court yesterday for an injunction to prevent William B. Collins from carrying out an alleged threat to forcibly enter the granary.

The bill of complaint, docketed by Attorney Thomas Lohr Richards, said that Collins recently told Hansel that if he did not remove his possessions from the granary by today, he would "immediately break the lock on the granary door, break down the door and throw out the possessions."

Associate Judge William A. Hunter signed a temporary order restraining Collins from bothering the granary or any other property belonging to Hansel and ordering him to show cause by April 15 why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

Hansel's suit said that he was the owner of a farm near Rawlins, while Collins occupied the farm adjoining on the west.

The Hansel property, according to the bill, includes a strip of land on the west side of Mill Run, on which are a dwelling house, a granary, sheds and garages. Hansel has had "undisputed possession" of this property for "many years," the suit stated.

Then, citing the threat Collins allegedly made, the plaintiff asserted he has "good reason to fear" that Collins will carry out the threat. To avert this "continuing menace" and prevent "irreparable damage" he asked the restraining order.

Man Hurts Back

George Miller, 35, of RFD 2, Cumberland, suffered an injured back yesterday afternoon when he fell backwards against the running board of an automobile while working on another machine. He was able to leave Allegany hospital after being treated.

Gephart P.-T.A. Marks Birthday

Group Will Celebrate 15th Year Tonight

The Gephart Parent-Teacher Association will celebrate its fifteenth birthday tonight in the school auditorium. President W. E. Landefeld announced yesterday.

Arrangements have been made to have the past presidents of the association give brief talks on some interesting incidents that occurred during their term of office. Among those to speak will be George Barnard, the first to hold the post; Charles Shaw, W. W. Mortizied, Clarence Valentine, Karl G. Kolb and Leroy Snyder.

Several novelty musical numbers will be given by the "Kitchen Band," a group of ladies equipped with kitchen utensils for instruments.

Refreshments will be served following the entertainment.

Firemen Kept Busy For Second Straight Day; Eight Fires Checked

Eight fires, including the burning of a pigeon loft, kept firemen of Cumberland's four companies on the jump yesterday afternoon.

West Side firemen were called at 2:25 to the rear of 29 Luteman highway, and at 12:35 to the 800-block Hill Top drive to extinguish grass fires.

A fire fire was put out by South End firemen at 2:10 at the home of W. E. Long, 57 Offutt street. Earlier they were summoned at 12:45 to the home of Mrs. Margaret Keller, 219 Broadway, when a pigeon loft caught on fire. One bird was rescued and the others flew away.

East Side firemen extinguished brush blazes at 1:50 on Shriver's Hill, at 1:18 on Piedmont avenue and at 12:30 on Columbia avenue.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Miller, of RFD 5, Cumberland, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Opening Dinner In Chest Drive Slated Tuesday

Nearly 500 To Attend Preliminary Meeting; Speakers Group Active

The opening dinner-meeting of the Cumberland Community Chest campaign will be held Tuesday at 6 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to William A. Gunter, general chairman.

The dinner will be attended by an army of workers which will total nearly 500. This is one of the largest and most compactly and systematically formed groups ever organized in Cumberland for a campaign of this kind. Mr. Gunter said, and the solicitation will be more complete with every able citizen in the city being interviewed and given an opportunity to subscribe.

The campaign does not start officially until two days after the opening dinner. The opening meeting is for the purpose of instruction and to outline all phases of the campaign, so that many details new to many of the volunteers can be explained.

Goal Is $56,373

The organization of the vast body of men and women enlisted to raise the $56,373 needed to maintain the ten Chest agencies for another year has been progressing rapidly. Division and section leaders, team captains, regional leaders and numerous team workers already enlisted bring the total to nearly 400. However, about 100 more persons will be enrolled in the campaign by the end of the week, to complete all teams.

Publicity and education committees have been actively engaged and the Speakers Bureau, headed by Paul Fletcher, has, according to Mr. Gunter, done a splendid piece of work. Much to the surprise and interest of everyone, the speakers have filled a total of thirty-one engagements in the city and have more to complete.

In many business houses, churches and schools a film, entitled "The Sun Shines Through," showing the work of Chest agencies has been shown. Groups interested in viewing this sound film, should call the Chest campaign office or Mr. Fletcher.

Many View Film

Among the places where speakers have been or the film has been viewed are Shriver Company, Eiler Chevrolet, Allegany hospital, German Brewing Company, Armour and Company, State Restaurant, Porter's Restaurant, Cumberland Cigar & Suit Company, C. & A. Gas Company offices, C. & A. Gas Company warehouses, General Textile Mills, Sports Garage, Woolworth Company, Maryland theater, Liberty Trust Company, Cumberland Police Department, Rialto Quick Lunch, Lazarus, Inc., E. V. Coyle Bros., Sears Roebuck and Company, Maurice's Department store, Monumental Life, Inc., Rosenbaum Brothers, Thompson Buick Corporation, Peoples Life, Inc., Great American Tea Company, Allegany County Court House, St. Mark's Reformed church, First Presbyterian church.

Several other business houses, churches, schools and organizations have applied for speakers and the film, and will be given assignments up to and including the dates of the campaign.

Deaths

Mrs. Daniel W. Doub

Funeral services for Mrs. Katherine Memmle Doub, 63, wife of Daniel W. Doub, who died Tuesday at her home in Hagerstown, were conducted yesterday. Burial was in Beaver Creek cemetery, Hagerstown.

Mrs. Doub came to Cumberland after she graduated from the Training School of Nurses of the Germantown hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. Here she became assistant superintendent of the Western Maryland hospital, which was located on Baltimore avenue.

She left Cumberland in 1912 and went to Hagerstown to become the first public nurse of that city and Washington county. A year later she resigned as public health nurse to marry.

Surviving, besides her husband, are three children by a previous marriage.

Mr. Hagerstown attorney, is a brother of former Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr., of Cumberland.

Elwood M. Albright

Elwood M. Albright, of Ridgeley, died Monday at Mountsville, W. Va. he was 20.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mildred Albright, of Cumberland; three brothers, Leonard and Garford Albright, of Baltimore, and Carlton Albright, of Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. Earl Northcraft and Miss Sylvia Mae Albright, also of Cumberland; and his grand mother, Mrs. E. P. Lease, with whom he resided.

Mrs. Aura E. Little

Last rites for Mrs. Aura Elizabeth Little, 77, widow of Albert C. Little, who died Saturday night at her home in Elkins, W. Va., were held yesterday in Elkins. Burial was in Bedford, Pa.

A son, Charles Little, of Cumberland, is among the survivors.

Hurt in Fall

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin Weighs Offer of Delaware Health Post

An offer to become executive secretary of the State Board of Health of the State of Delaware today had been extended to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin, who was in Wilmington Tuesday to confer with Delaware officials, admitted yesterday he was considering the offer but had not as yet made up his mind to accept it.

Widely Known

Dr. Franklin, widely known by health department officials through his work in this section during the last eleven years, will be given ample time by Delaware officials to "make up his mind."

The position offered to Dr. Franklin is similar in scope to the one held by Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the Maryland Department of Health.

Dr. Franklin said he had informed Dr. Riley of the Delaware offer. Dr. Riley urged him not to leave Maryland, he said.

Mayor Wants Him To Stay

Mayor Harry Irvine, informed of the offer to Dr. Franklin, was hopeful that the county and city health officer would see fit to remain here.

Mayor Irvine, long sold on the program of Dr. Franklin and his associates, recently declared in a radio address that "Cumberland's health department is so well organized and efficiently operated that it ranks as the number one health department in the state and has a higher merit rating than even the City of Baltimore."

Dr. Franklin became city and county health officer eleven years ago. He initiated many reforms and changes.

In 1936, Dr. Allan W. Freeman, dean of the school of hygiene and public health of Johns Hopkins university, made a thorough survey of the city and county health situation.

Many Changes Made

Dr. Freeman suggested a number of changes in organization and methods. Under Dr. Franklin, every one of these suggestions were carried out to the last detail.

Dr. Franklin laughed yesterday when questioned concerning his health reforms which have cut down disease to a whisper compared to a few years ago.

"Don't forget I had twenty-one people working with me," he said.

Would Have Big Job

In the event Dr. Franklin accepts the position in Delaware, he would have charge of a large organization looking after the health of some 250,000 people in the state. His headquarters would be in Wilmington, a city of approximately 100,000 population.

News of the offer to Dr. Franklin follows the recent resignation of Dr. Walter Johnson, Dr. Franklin's assistant, who is scheduled to leave Saturday for Caroline county, Eastern Shore, where he will become county health officer.

Parole Pleas Turned Down

Four from Here Denied Liberty; Records Cited

Annapolis, March 27 (AP)—Catherine Spencer and Goldie W. Grapes, each serving a year for contributing to the delinquency of the Spencer woman's minor son, were denied parole today by Herman M. Moser, parole director.

The court records against the two women prisoners showed they had been troublesome to Cumberland police, and had been involved in mixed parties for whites and negroes. They were convicted for leaving the small boy alone for long periods.

Edward Bishop, convicted in Allegany county for contributing to the delinquency of his twelve-year-old daughter, was also denied release. He had a previous record.

Harvey Gomer, Borden Yard, convicted in a filing station robbery, was denied parole on his previous bad record.

Only two prisoners out of fifty applicants were recommended for release after hearings today.

Correction

It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Cumberland News that John A. Gallen, of 613 Patterson avenue, testified Tuesday in Trial Magistrate court in behalf of an alleged drunken and reckless driver who was acquitted on both charges.

It was George Long, of North Mechanic street, an employee of the Southern hotel, who testified that the driver had had one bottle of beer at his home before his arrest, and not Gallen. Gallen was present at the trial only because he posted bond for the driver.

Gallen last night reported that he had had no knowledge of the circumstances connected with the case. He was forty miles from Cumberland when the arrest occurred, he said.

The mix-up in names occurred when court attaches, who saw Gallen in court, reported he had testified.

To See Movies

A motion picture entitled "Men and Trees" will be featured today at 7:30 p. m. at the regular meeting of Townsend Club No. 2 in the Odd Fellows building on South Mechanic street.

Varied Program Promised Monday By Duke Singers

Junior Association Presents Glee Club At Fort Hill High

The members of the active Junior Association of Commerce are inviting Cumberland people to support what promises to be a worthwhile concert Monday evening at the Fort Hill high school auditorium.

The program will feature the celebrated Duke University Glee Club including two "home-town boys," Sam Enfield, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Enfield, who will appear as a soloist; and Donald L. Somerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Somerville, a second tenor.

Talented Group

The talented group of young singers is directed by J. Foster Barnes, an exacting, thorough musician. The program is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

For more than fifteen years glee clubs of the North Carolina institution have been renowned for their interpretation of negro folk songs as well as classical and semi-classical music.

Due to Mr. Barnes' unerring theatrical sense and contagious enthusiasm, the club's concerts on tour have seldom failed to please all classes of audiences.

Varied Program

The Duke organization, now on tour, has promised to present a diversified program Monday night including negro spirituals, classical and semi-classical numbers, a male quartet, Mr. Enfield and other soloists and a student pianist. Judging from the type of program scheduled, the concert should please either a fastidious musician or a layman who cannot distinguish between nocturne and scherzo.

Choral numbers on the program will include "Now Let Every Tongue" from "Sleepers, Wake," by Bach-Davison; "Caro Mio Ben," by Giordani - Spross; "Hallelujah, Amen" from "Judas Maccabaeus," by Handel; "Psalms," by Tschakowsky-Rieger; "The Bell-Man," Cecil Forsyth; "Cossack Love Song," Koutnz-Treharne; "God of the Open Air," written by Noble Cain and dedicated to J. Foster Barnes and the Duke Glee Club.

"Were You There?" by H. T. Burleigh; "Chillun Come on Home," Noble Cain; "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," arranged by Natalie Curtis - Shurin; "Sweethearts," "Wooden Shoes" and "On Parade," all from "Sweethearts," by Herbert Marlowe; and "Dear Old Duke," by R. H. James.

Enfield To Sing Solo

Young Enfield will be heard in solo in Gretchenoff's "Over the Steppes." He will also appear in two quartet numbers, Foster-Nevins' "I Dream of Jeanie" and Rudolf Friml's "Song of the Vagabonds."

Other solo numbers will be by John R. Lyle, Wilfrid Sanderson's "Friend of Mine," and John P. Waggoner, Jacques Wolfe's "Gwin to Hebb'n."

A piano solo will be played by Golsion Hawkins.

Census School To Start Friday

Houck To Direct Course at City Hall

An instruction school for census enumerators employed in Allegany county will be held Friday and Saturday at the Cumberland City Hall. Sessions will open at 10 a. m.

Charles S. Houck Jr., assistant area manager, and Mrs. Stella G. Bruce, assistant supervisor, will be in charge of the two-day session. Movies will be shown to instruct the applicants. A test will also be given applicants, and the enumerators will be named afterwards.

The census school in Garrett county opened yesterday at the Oakland City Hall with Hugh M. Frampton, district supervisor, in charge.

Speeder Fined $10

Thomas A. Dart, 349 Bedford street, was fined $10 yesterday in Police court on a charge of careless driving. Dart was arrested Tuesday morning on Greene street by Officers B. F. Hotchkiss and F. O. Damm for speeding.

To Raze Smith Building Within Sixty Days, Realtor Announces

Work will begin within sixty days on razing the Smith building, Baltimore and George streets, preparatory to starting the construction of a four-story business building for Montgomery Ward and Company, according to word received yesterday by Robert W. Young, real estate agent, from Chicago executives of the mail order company.

According to the word received by Young, who handled the realty transactions, Montgomery Ward and Company plans to build an up-to-date business building with four floors plus mezzanine and a business basement.

Although it was not definitely announced yesterday, it is believed the company plans to erect a one or two-story building on the site across the alley from the store, which was recently acquired by Montgomery Ward.

According to tentative plans, this space will eventually

Associate Judge William A. Huster signed a temporary order restraining Collins from bothering the granary or any other property belonging to Hansel and ordering him to show cause by April 15 why a permanent injunction should not be issued.

Hansel's suit said that he was the owner of a farm near Rawlins, while Collins occupied the farm adjoining on the west.

The Hansel property, according to the bill, includes a strip of land on the west side of Mill Run, on which are a dwelling house, a granary, sheds and garages. Hansel has had "undisputed possession" of this property for "many years," the suit stated.

Then, citing the threat Collins allegedly made, the plaintiff asserted he has "good reason to fear" that Collins will carry out the threat. To avert this "continuing menace" and prevent "irreparable damage" he asked the restraining order.

Man Hurts Back

George Miller, 35, of RFD 2, Cumberland, suffered an injured back yesterday afternoon when he fell backwards against the running board of an automobile while working on another machine. He was able to leave Allegany hospital after being treated.

Gephart P.-T.A. Marks Birthday

Group Will Celebrate 15th Year Tonight

The Gephart Parent-Teacher Association will celebrate its fifteenth birthday tonight in the school auditorium, President W. E. Landefeld announced yesterday.

Arrangements have been made to have the past presidents of the association give brief talks on some interesting incidents that occurred during their term of office. Among those to speak will be George Barnard, the first to hold the post; Charles Shaw, W. W. Mortfeldt; Clarence Valentine, Karl G. Kolb and Leroy Snyder.

Several novelty musical numbers will be given by the "Kitchen Band," a group of ladies equipped with kitchen utensils for instruments.

Refreshments will be served following the entertainment.

Firemen Kept Busy For Second Straight Day; Eight Fires Checked

Eight fires, including the burning of a pigeon loft, kept firemen of Cumberland's four companies on the jump yesterday afternoon.

West Side firemen were called at 2:25 to the rear of 29 Lutemans highway, and at 12:35 to the 800-block Hill Top drive to extinguish grass fires.

A fire fire was put out by South End firemen at 2:10 at the home of W. E. Long, 57 Offutt street. Earlier, they were summoned at 12:45 to the home of Mrs. Margaret Keller, 319 Broadway, when a pigeon loft caught on fire. One bird was rescued and the others flew away.

East Side firemen extinguished brush fires at 1:50 on Shriver's Hill; at 1:18 on Piedmont avenue; and at 12:30 on Columbia avenue.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Miller, of RFD 5, Cumberland, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning at Memorial hospital.

Opening Dinner In Chest Drive Slated Tuesday

Nearly 500 To Attend Preliminary Meeting; Speakers Group Active

The opening dinner-meeting of the Cumberland Community Chest campaign will be held Tuesday at 6 p. m. at Central YMCA, according to William A. Gunter, general chairman.

The dinner will be attended by an army of workers which will total nearly 500. This is one of the largest and most compactly and systematically formed groups ever organized in Cumberland for a campaign of this kind. Mr. Gunter said, and the solicitation will be more complete with every able citizen in the city being interviewed and given an opportunity to subscribe.

The campaign does not start officially until two days after the opening dinner. The opening meeting is for the purpose of instruction and to outline all phases of the campaign, so that many details new to many of the volunteers can be explained.

Goal Is $56,373

The organization of the vast body of men and women enlisted to raise the $56,373 needed to maintain the Chest agencies for another year has been progressing rapidly. Division and section leaders, team captains, regional leaders and numerous team workers already enlisted bring the total to nearly 400. However, about 100 more persons will be enrolled in the campaign by the end of the week, to complete all teams.

Publicity and education committees have been actively engaged and the Speakers Bureau, headed by Paul Fletcher, has, according to Mr. Gunter, done a splendid piece of work. Much to the surprise and interest of everyone, the speakers have filled a total of thirty-one engagements in the city and have more to complete.

In many business houses, churches and schools a film, entitled "The Sun Shines Through," showing the work of Chest agencies has been shown. Groups interested in viewing this sound film, should call the Chest campaign office or Mr. Fletcher.

Many View Film

Among the places where speakers have been, or the film has been viewed are Shriver Company, Eller Chevrolet, Allegany hospital, German Brewing Company, Armour and Company, State Restaurant, Porter's Restaurant, Cumberland Clink & Suit Company, C. & A. Gas Company, General Textile Mills, Sports Garage, Woolworth Company, Maryland theater, Liberty Trust Company, Cumberland Police Department, Rialto Quick Lunch, Lazarus, Inc., E. V. Coyle Bros., Sears Roebuck and Company, Maurice's Department store, Monumental Life, Inc., Rosenbaum Brothers, Thompson Buick Corporation, Peoples Life, Inc., Great American Tea Company, Allegany County Court House, St. Mark's Reformed church, First Presbyterian church.

Several other business houses, churches, schools and organizations have applied for speakers and the film, and will be given assignments up to and including the dates of the campaign.

Deaths

Mrs. Daniel W. Doub

Funeral services for Mrs. Katherine Memmerle Doub, 63, wife of Daniel W. Doub, who died Tuesday at her home in Hagerstown, were conducted yesterday. Burial was in Beaver Creek cemetery, Hagerstown.

Mrs. Doub came to Cumberland after she graduated from the Training School of Nurses of the Germantown hospital in Philadelphia, Pa. Here she became assistant superintendent of the Western Maryland hospital, which was located on Baltimore avenue.

She left Cumberland in 1912 and went to Hagerstown to become the first public nurse of that city and Washington county. A year later she resigned as public health nurse to marry.

Surviving, besides her husband, are three children by a previous marriage.

Mr. Hagerstown attorney, is a brother of former Judge Albert A. Doub, Sr., of Cumberland.

Elwood M. Albright

Elwood M. Albright, of Ridgeley, died Monday at Mountville, W. Va. He was 20.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Mildred Albright, of Cumberland; three brothers, Leonard and Garfield Albright, of Baltimore, and Carlton Albright, of Cumberland; two sisters, Mrs. Earl Northcraft and Miss Sylvia Mae Albright, also of Cumberland; and his grand mother, Mrs. E. P. Lease, with whom he resided.

Mrs. Aura E. Little

Last rites for Mrs. Aura Elizabeth Little, 77, widow of Albert C. Little, who died Saturday night at her home in Elkins, W. Va., were held yesterday in Elkins. Burial was in Bedford, Pa.

A son, Charles Little, of Cumberland, is among the survivors.

Hurt in Fall

Dr. Joseph P. Franklin Weighs Offer of Delaware Health Post

An offer to become executive secretary of the State Board of Health of the State of Delaware today had been extended to Dr. Joseph P. Franklin, city and county health officer.

Dr. Franklin, who was in Wilmington Tuesday to confer with Delaware officials, admitted yesterday he was considering the offer but had not as yet made up his mind to accept it.

Widely Known

Dr. Franklin, widely known by health department officials through his work in this section during the last eleven years, will be given ample time by Delaware officials to "make up his mind."

The position offered to Dr. Franklin is similar in scope to the one held by Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the Maryland Department of Health.

Dr. Franklin said he had informed Dr. Riley of the Delaware offer. Dr. Riley urged him not to leave Maryland, he said.

Mayor Wants Him To Stay

Mayor Harry Irvine, informed of the offer to Dr. Franklin, was hopeful that the county and city health officer would see fit to remain here.

Mayor Irvine, long sold on the program of Dr. Franklin and his associates, recently declared in a radio address that "Cumberland's health department is so well organized and efficiently operated that it ranks as the number one health department in the state and has a higher merit rating than even the City of Baltimore."

Dr. Franklin became city and county health officer eleven years ago. He initiated many reforms and changes.

In 1926, Dr. Allan W. Freeman, dean of the school of hygiene and public health of Johns Hopkins university, made a thorough survey of the city and county health situation.

Many Changes Made

Dr. Freeman suggested a number of changes in organization and methods. Under Dr. Franklin, every one of these suggestions were carried out to the last detail.

Dr. Franklin laughed yesterday when questioned concerning his health reforms which have cut down disease to a whisper compared to a few years ago.

"Don't forget I had twenty-one people working with me," he said.

Would Have Big Job

In the event Dr. Franklin accepts the position in Delaware, he would have charge of a large organization looking after the health of some 250,000 people in the state. His headquarters would be in Wilmington.

News of the offer to Dr. Franklin follows the recent resignation of Dr. Walter Johnson, Dr. Franklin's assistant, who is scheduled to leave Saturday for Caroline county, Eastern Shore, where he will become county health officer.

Parole Pleas Turned Down

Four from Here Denied Liberty; Records Cited

Annapolis, March 27 (AP)—Catherine Spencer and Goldie V. Grapes, each serving a year for contributing to the delinquency of the Spencer woman's minor son, were denied parole today by Herman M. Moser, parole director.

The court records against the two women prisoners showed they had been troublesome to Cumberland police, and had been involved in mixed parties for whites and negroes. They were convicted for leaving the small boy alone for long periods.

Edward Bishop, convicted in Allegany county for contributing to the delinquency of his twelve-year-old daughter, was also denied release. He had a previous record.

Harvey Gomer, Borden Yard, convicted in a filing station robbery, was denied parole on his previous bad record.

Only two prisoners out of fifty applicants were recommended for release after hearings today.

Moser characterized the convicted denied release as "a bad lot."

Correction

It was erroneously stated in yesterday's Cumberland News that John A. Gallen, of 613 Patterson avenue, testified Tuesday in Trial Magistrate's court in behalf of an alleged drunken and reckless driver who was acquitted on both charges.

It was George Long, of North Mechanic street, an employee of the Southern hotel, who testified that the driver had had one bottle of beer at his home before his arrest, and not Gallen. Gallen was present at the trial only because he posted bond for the driver.

Gallen last night reported that he had had no knowledge of the circumstances connected with the case. He was forty miles from Cumberland when the arrest occurred, he said.

The mix-up in names occurred when court attaches, who saw Gallen in court, reported he had testified.

To See Movies

A motion picture entitled "Men and Trees" will be featured today at 7:30 p. m. at the regular meeting of Townsend Club No. 2 in the Odd Fellows building on South Mechanic street.

Varied Program Promised Monday By Duke Singers

Junior Association Presents Glee Club At Fort Hill High

The members of the active Junior Association of Commerce are inviting Cumberland people to support what promises to be a worthwhile concert Monday evening at the Fort Hill high school auditorium.

The program will feature the celebrated Duke University Glee Club including two "home-town boys," Sam Enfield, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Enfield, who will appear as a soloist, and Donald L. Somerville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Somerville, a second tenor.

Talented Group

The talented group of young singers is directed by J. Foster Barnes, an exacting, thorough musician. The program is sponsored by the Junior Association of Commerce.

For more than fifteen years glee clubs of the North Carolina institution have been renowned for their interpretation of negro folk songs as well as classical and semi-classical music.

Due to Mr. Barnes' unerring theatrical sense and contagious enthusiasm, the club's concerts on tour have seldom failed to please all classes of audiences.

Varied Program

The Duke organization, now on tour, has promised to present a diversified program Monday night including negro spirituals, classical and semi-classical numbers, a male quartet, Mr. Enfield and other soloists and a student pianist. Judging from the type of program scheduled, the concert should please either a fastidious musician or a layman who cannot distinguish between nocturne and scherzo.

Choral numbers on the program will include "Now Let Every Tongue" from "Sleepers, Wake," by Bach-Davison; "Caro Mio Ben," by Giordani - Spross; "Hallelujah, Amen" from "Judas Macabaeus," by Handel; "Pilgrim's Song," by Tschakowsky-Rieger; "The Bell-Man," Cecil Forsyth; "Cossack Love Song," Koutnz-Treharne; "God of the Open Air," written by Noble Cain and dedicated to J. Foster Barnes and the Duke Glee Club.

"Were You There?" by H. T. Burleigh; "Chillun Come on Home," Noble Cain; "Couldn't Hear Nobody Pray," arranged by Natalie Curtis - Burlin; "Sweethearts," "Wooden Shoes" and "On Parade," all from "Sweethearts," by Herbert-Marlowe; and "Dear Old Duke," by R. H. James.

Enfield To Sing Solo

Young Enfield will be heard in solo in Gretchinoff's "Over the Steppes." He will also appear in two quartet numbers, Foster-Nevins' "I Dream of Jeanie" and Rudolf Friml's "Song of the Vagabonds."

Other solo numbers will be by John R. Lyle, Wilfrid Sanderson's "Friend O' Mine," and John P. Waggoner, Jacques Wolfe's "Gwin to Hebbin'."

A piano solo will be played by Gelson Hawkins.

Census School To Start Friday

Houck To Direct Course at City Hall

An instruction school for census enumerators employed in Allegany county will be held Friday and Saturday at the Cumberland City Hall. Sessions will open at 10 a. m.

Charles S. Houck Jr., assistant area manager, and Mrs. Stella G. Bruce, assistant supervisor, will be in charge of the two-day session. Movies will be shown to instruct the applicants. A test will also be given applicants, and the enumerators will be named afterwards.

Speeder Fined $10

Thomas A. Darr, 349 Bedford street, was fined $10 yesterday in Police court on a charge of careless driving. Darr was arrested Tuesday morning on Greene street by Officers B. F. Hotchkiss and F. O. Daum for speeding.

To Raze Smith Building Within Sixty Days, Realtor Announces

Work will begin within sixty days on razing the Smith building, Baltimore and George streets, preparatory to starting the construction of a four-story business building for Montgomery Ward and Company, according to word received yesterday by Robert W. Young, real estate agent, from Chicago executives of the mail order company.

According to the word received by Young, who handled the realty transactions, Montgomery Ward and Company plans to build an up-to-date business building with four floors plus mezzanine and a business basement.

Although it was not definitely announced yesterday, it is believed the company plans to erect a one or two-story building on the site across the alley from the store, which was recently acquired by Montgomery Ward.

According to tentative plans, this space will eventually be used to construct a building for a car servicing station to take care of the company's tire and automobile accessory business.
